Media Aesthetics

ENG/CINE 260, Winter 2014

Class Blog: <http://mediaaestheticswinter2014.wordpress.com/>

Course Description: English 260 is one of four required courses that make up the fundamentals of the Cinema Studies major. The course will focus on helping you build the critical skills to understand, analyze, and interpret visual media texts. It will do so by highlighting the fundamental formal elements of film and television (and to a lesser extent, video games and the web) and using this vocabulary, we will explore the complex interplay of technical design, social influence, and cultural conventions that shape our media production and consumption experiences. We will also take time to consider how the construction of a media text makes meaning.

Goals for ENG/CINE 260:

- Gain a basic understanding of film & television aesthetics
- Learn Film & TV Studies vocabulary
- Develop skills to write and talk critically about film & television

Required Materials:

- The Film Experience, An Introduction*, 3rd ed. Timothy Corrigan and Patricia White, (2009). (TFE)
- Television: Critical Methods and Applications*, 4th ed. Jeremy Butler, (2006). (TCMA)
- Subscription to the course blog (<https://signup.wordpress.com/signup/?user=1>)
- Access to Blackboard

Attendance: Attendance is REQUIRED. You may miss 2 classes without a grade penalty (I take attendance every class, but please keep track of your own absence record). A third absence will lower your final course grade by 1/3 of a letter grade (from a B+ to a B, for instance). If you miss a 4th class you automatically FAIL the course without notice. Frequent tardiness will also be counted as an absence. Please see me IN ADVANCE about any absences you expect to incur. You are responsible for what you miss from class due to absences. Everything we watch will be on reserve in Knight Library after we screen it.

Emails: While I strive to maintain a relaxed attitude in class to help facilitate discussion, I request that your email correspondence with me maintain a professional etiquette. Please refrain from emailing with questions already explained in the syllabus or available on Blackboard. Use proper spelling and punctuation, and include a greeting and salutation. Emails that fail to do so will not receive a response.

Classroom Standards:

•Our class will be a space of productive thought and inquiry. Please feel free to express any thoughts or comments about our subject matter in a respectful way. Listen to others when they are talking, do not engage in side conversations, and be courteous even when disagreements arise. Those who choose not to discuss the films in a respectful way will be asked to leave the class, and possibly the course.

•Active participation is required. To facilitate discussion, carefully read the assigned material before class and take notes while watching the films and television programs. Although you may use laptops to take notes, there should be no cell phones, no texting, no Internet use. It is vital that students respect the classroom and each other. Consistently disrupting the class (falling asleep, talking while others are trying to talk, checking Facebook or e-mail during class, arriving late or leaving early, etc.) will result in an absence. You may bring quiet and non-messy food and/or drinks to class so long as you take care of all trash and leave the classroom clean.

Access for Students with Disabilities: If you have a disability (physical or learning), which you think may affect your performance in this class, please see me during the first week of the term so we can make arrangements, if necessary, for your full access to all classroom activities.

Extra Credit: Throughout the term I will present opportunities for extra credit in various forms. Some will be on-campus events, which you may attend and then turn in a 1-page, 2X spaced write-up that briefly summarizes the event and describes your thoughts about the experience. I will also announce if extra points for additional effort are available for specific assignments. Each student is eligible for a maximum 3 extra credit points per term.

Participation: Your participation grade in this course will be determined by your grades on unannounced quizzes over the readings (10%) and effort on class activities and assignments (5%). Activities and assignments include your flip card, practice shot list, and contributions during class discussions.

Weekly Wordpress Blog Posts & Comments: This weekly assignment will require you to subscribe to our class blog. You can do by setting up a wordpress account at the following link: <https://signup.wordpress.com/signup/?user=1>. This blog is public, so if you wish to protect your privacy, you may create an account using some other version of your name/initials (but I must be able to recognize you from your username). Each week (including Week 1) students will post a 350-500 word blog entry, sharing their thoughts on the week's screening(s) and readings. These posts are a chance for each of you to share your opinions, practice critical analysis of the media we screen, and to discuss relevant ideas with one another. Each week, after you post your entry, you should comment on three your classmates' posts. Comments should be at least 100 words, and engage in a respectful and relevant discussion of the week's material. All blog entries are due Friday of each week.

Writing & Formatting: This is an English Department course and as such your writing on all assignments will meet the highest standards. I will pay attention not only to your ideas but how those ideas are presented. This means that I will grade your written work on its content, organization, and presentation, as well as its use of grammar, punctuation and sentence structure. Please type all written work, using Times New Roman 12pt. font and 1" margins.

Academic Honesty: All assignments must adhere to standards of academic honesty outlined in the Student Handbook. Do not turn in work prepared for other classes. Document all sources consulted in preparing your work, including movies, websites and other material obtained on the Internet. If in doubt, document. Plagiarism will result in failure for the course and additional sanctions determined by the director of Student Judicial Affairs. Please consult Rules for Writers for a definition of plagiarism and information on documentation, and refer to the Student Conduct Code on the Office of Student Conduct and Community Standards website: <http://uodos.uoregon.edu/StudentConductandCommunityStandards/StudentConductCode/tabid/69/Default.aspx>

Late Work & Extensions: Except in the case of documented emergencies, late work will receive a 10% penalty for each day past due. However, if you need an extension please come talk to me at least 24 hours before the assignment is due. I will require you to document your need for an extension and set a new due date (usually via e-mail).

WARNING: This class will screen media that contains explicit depictions of sex, violence, adult themes, coarse language, and material that some might find offensive. If you think that this might be a problem for you, please come talk to me about whether we can find a solution, or if this is the best class for you.
