The Craft of the Sentence
Winter term 2021

Prof. Gordon Sayre
Office phone 541-346-1313

description:
The primary goal of this course is to learn about the structure, or syntax, of English sentences. Our method will be sentence diagramming, a technique for representing in a graphic arrangement all the structural elements of a sentence—such as the subject, object, verb, prepositions, phrases and clauses. We will occasionally be concerned with English usage (choosing the appropriate word on the basis of signification or register), and rarely with punctuation and capitalization.

The course is intended to be a writing course as well as a grammar course. To many people, “grammar” refers to a series of rules that classify a given word or sentence as correct or incorrect. English teachers are often portrayed as sticklers or pedants who attempt to enforce grammar rules upon students and the public. Grammar is more accurately understood, however, as a dynamic set of cognitive structures that are shared by all native speakers of a language, and acquired by second-language learners. There are many theories about how best to explain these cognitive structures, but this is not a linguistics course and we will not explore that topic. Rest assured that diagramming sentences only scratches the surface of grammar’s complexity.

A secondary goal of the course is for students to improve their writing by learning how to construct better sentences. Rather than simply respond to the admonitions of writing teachers who complain about awkward writing and mark up grammar and punctuation errors, students can learn what lies behind their instructors’ comments, see how clarity and simplicity can be achieved in a sentence, and then craft strong paragraphs and arguments.

Textbooks available at the Duck Store:
Grammar by Diagram, 2nd edition, by Cindy L. Vitto (Broadview Press, 2006)
Grammar by Diagram Workbook, by Cindy L. Vitto (Broadview Press, 2009) the two sold together for $69

Please have the Grammar by Diagram textbook available during every class meeting, as we will work together on exercises in that book. Please acquire a sketchbook and thick marking pen, or a small erasable whiteboard and marker, so that you can draw diagrams and show them to your classmates on zoom. The workbook is the basis for homework assignments to be completed after class. Both books include solutions to all the exercises in an answer key at the end. The homework will not be graded. Quizzes and worksheets are the basis for most of the graded work, and should be turned in as photographs or scans.

Our virtual class meetings may resemble a math or second-language course more than a literature course. We will examine exercises from the textbook, review possible solutions, and evaluate why a possible solution is correct or incorrect. Students should be prepared to work in small groups and to share their answers. When the class met in person, students often drew diagrams in front of class on the whiteboards. We will spend much of the time working through exercises in our textbooks, as a class or in small groups. I plan to stay on the zoom meeting until 4 pm each class day, and the final fifteen minutes will be available for students to ask questions and get help with the exercises, or the homework. There will five parts to our routine for each class meeting:

Part 1 – Prof. Sayre will introduce key concepts from the chapters of Grammar by Diagram. Students are required to read these pages ahead of class meetings, and work through at least some of the exercises in the chapters, so as to be prepared to solve the exercise problems in class.

Part 2 – After we review the concepts, students will work in small groups on the exercises. Students should be prepared to share their diagrams using their whiteboards or sketchpads.

Part 3 – On some days we will take a break from the textbook for activities and applications of grammatical concepts in literature, spoken language, or stylistics.
Part 4 – Homework is assigned for the next class period, from the Grammar by Diagram Workbook (with the orange photo on the cover).

Part 5 – Stay on-line until 4 pm if you have questions about the homework or textbook exercises. You will not be required to turn in the homework, but you will need to do it in order to prepare for the quizzes, which will consist, for the most part, of exercises copied from or modeled upon those in the homework.

Learning Goals or Outcomes
-- to identify the parts of speech and parts of an English sentence
-- to understand the tense, mood, aspect, voice, and conjugations of English verbs
-- to diagram basic sentences by the basic structures of subject and predicate, clauses and phrases
-- to be able to revise and restructure sentences to avoid usage and grammar errors and improve fluency

Assignments and Grades
Six quizzes or worksheets: 45 points
Writing self-analysis and peer review due February 16: 15 points
Bi-weekly “sentences in the wild” worksheets and contributions to discussion board: 20 points
Attendance and participation: 10 points (half point for each of the 20 meetings)
Final exam/project: 10 points
Extra Credit opportunities: poetic syntax and word order; transcribing Renaissance English

Inclusion and Accessibility Accommodations:
If you have a documented need that necessitates accommodations in this course, please arrange to meet with me as soon as possible and request that a counselor at the Accessible Education Center send a letter verifying your requests and outlining an accommodation plan.

Title IX Policy and Reporting Responsibilities:
The University of Oregon is committed to providing an environment free of all forms of prohibited discrimination and sexual harassment, including sexual assault, domestic and dating violence, and gender-based harassment, bullying, and stalking. If you have experienced any form of gender or sex-based discrimination or harassment, know that help and support are available. UO has staff members trained to support survivors in navigating campus life, accessing health and counseling services, providing academic and housing accommodations, helping with legal protective orders, and more.

Please be aware that all UO employees are required to report to appropriate authorities (supervisor or Office of Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity) when they have reasonable cause to believe that discrimination, harassment, or abuse of any kind has taken, or is taking, place. Employees are NOT required to reveal the names of survivors, however. We are also required to report instances of child abuse or endangerment. If you wish to speak to someone confidentially—i.e. those not required to report—you can call 541-346-SAFE, UO’s 24-hour hotline to be connected to a confidential counselor to discuss your options, as confidential counselors are not required reporters. You can also visit the SAFE website at https://safe.uoregon.edu/services for more information. Each resource is clearly labeled as either “required reporter,” “confidential UO employee,” or “off-campus,” to allow you to select your desired level of confidentiality.
