GENERAL INFORMATION

THE INDIVIDUAL FACULTY ADVISOR AND INDIVIDUAL PLAN OF STUDY

Students are admitted to either the Master of Arts or the Doctor of Philosophy program. Those entering the PhD program with a bachelor’s degree can be awarded an MA when they have successfully completed sufficient work. If a student completing the terminal MA in English wants to continue graduate work in the University of Oregon English department PhD program, he or she must apply for admission to the doctoral program. Both programs offer students great flexibility in determining their course of study, but the differences between the MA and the PhD requirements must be kept in mind when planning a student’s curriculum. The MA requires three “distribution” seminars (including ENG 690, Introduction to Graduate Studies) and nine additional seminars in any area (a master’s thesis may substitute for one seminar) for a total of twelve seminars. The PhD requires six “distribution” seminars (including ENG 690 and ENG 614, Introduction to Literary and Cultural Theory) and twelve additional seminars in any area, for a total of eighteen seminars. The twelve undesignated seminars constitute the individual plan of study. Students work with faculty advisors to develop that plan.

After completion of the fall quarter of their first year in the program, new students are assigned individual faculty advisors by the Graduate Committee. Since the advisor is an expert in the student’s area of interest, faculty members may be assigned more than one student. Informal advising should take place during the first year.

The student and advisor develop an individual plan of study and submit it to the Director of Graduate Studies for approval by June 1 of the first year. This plan projects course work for the student’s entire graduate career, based on the published schedule of English seminars for the upcoming year and the tentative three-year seminar plan (Appendix A). (The submitted plan can be changed later, subject to the same approval process.)

In choosing classes for the individual plan of study, it is extremely important that academic requirements (referred to in this manual as “requirements counting toward the degree” or “degree credit”) correspond to GTF progress requirements. Academic requirements entail course work, language, exams, and theses or dissertations; GTF progress requirements stipulate the timeline for completion of academic and teacher-training work in order for a student to be eligible for a GTF appointment. To assist in balancing these two sets of requirements, each student’s checklist includes the dates by which specific academic requirements must be completed to maintain eligibility for a GTF appointment (see “Timetables for Yearly Progress Toward the PhD”).

The plan of study includes two documents:
• The PhD Checklist with itemized completed and anticipated course work, and, if relevant, structured emphasis information (pertaining to classes and the qualifying exam) (see “PhD Checklist” and “Structured Emphasis Options”);
• A brief letter identifying the student’s areas of specialization and giving a rationale for the plan of study, signed by advisor and student.

The Director of Graduate Studies evaluates the plan and consults with the student and advisor if there are any questions or suggestions. The approved plan of study is signed by the Director of Graduate Studies and filed in the department office. The student and advisor each receive a copy of the approved plan.

By the time PhD students begin their second year of work in the program, they should have a good working relationship with their individual faculty advisors and an approved individual plan of study.

MA students are assigned general advisors or advisors in specialized areas if they declare a particular interest.

The individual faculty advisor also provides guidance and mentorship in all aspects of a graduate student’s career: course work, examinations, foreign language requirements, degree progress, interdisciplinary opportunities, reading groups, conferences, publication, research, writing and oral communication skills, and professionalism.

POLICY FOR GRADUATE STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Students using the Policy must be registered with Disability Services.

The Department of English will make every effort to arrange accommodations when warranted and to adhere to the following:

1. The department will compile and make available a resource collection of materials regarding legislation, university policies, Disability Services publications, department policies, and descriptions of successful accommodations in English and in other departments. The collection will include a set of “Guidelines for Working with Students with Disabilities” and these will be updated over time and enforced under the guidance of the Department Head and the Director of Graduate Studies. The “Guidelines” will address instructional strategies for assuring reasonable accommodation for students with specific disabilities.

2. Faculty will make reasonable accommodations to assure equal access to all course materials for all students, regardless of the nature of their disabilities. (See “Individual Academic Accommodation Plan” below.)
3. The student will be encouraged to meet with his or her instructors in advance of the beginning of classes to devise and agree upon any alternative time lines deemed necessary given the specific disability. (See “Individual Academic Accommodation Plan” below.)

4. The department will arrange Flexible Time policies for relevant aspects of the program at the request of the student, which may result in a written agreement between faculty and student or department and student for major accommodations. The department will not penalize the student for delays that occur under an agreed-upon alternative time line.

5. “Incompletes” may be used under the Flexible Time policy according to the following guidelines:

   A. The time line (not to exceed double time) for completing the course will offer the student both more time for research and writing and a set time for completion of course work. Under this agreement the student is expected to complete the work within the stipulated period and the faculty member to continue acting as instructor and mentor throughout the agreed-upon period. If the student does not finish the work for the course within the Flexible Time period, the course will then be treated as a conventional Incomplete.

   B. The grade of Incomplete will be used in these cases; however, the written Flexible Time agreement will be filed with the Director of Graduate Studies, who will assure that the grade is not treated as a conventional Incomplete in the following ways.

      i. The Graduate School, upon notification by the Director of Graduate Studies, will not send a letter of warning regarding Incomplete grades during the Flexible Time period.

      ii. The Appointments Committee, upon notification by the Director of Graduate Studies, will not penalize the student for Flexible Time Incompletes during the Flexible Time period.

6. Upon request from a student with a disability, his or her Graduate Teaching Fellow (GTF) assignments will be made early for ordering textbooks and scheduling accessible classrooms.

7. A GTF’s supervisor will meet with the GTF in advance of the start of classes to establish procedures and accommodations that will be necessary for the GTF with a disability to fulfill his or her assignment.
8. Collaborative teaching assignments between a GTF with a disability and one other GTF may be arranged.

9. The Director of Graduate Studies will assist in the implementation of this policy.

INDIVIDUAL ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATION PLAN

The Individual Academic Accommodation Plan allows graduate students with disabilities to request accommodations from the English Department. The graduate student is responsible for drafting the plan, according to the “Guidelines” below, though he or she should consult with the Disability Services office and the Director of Graduate Studies.

Guidelines

For every accommodation requested, the student should address the following points:
—Describe the accommodation requested,
—Indicate, in as much detail as possible, how the accommodation will aid successful participation in class or successful completion of progress requirements,
—Describe what action or cooperation is necessary on the part of the instructor (or other Department staff) for the success of the specific accommodation,
—If known, indicate what other campus offices will be involved in the accommodation.

Areas in which accommodations may be requested:

Access to classrooms
Access to classroom activities (including lectures, group work and discussions, presentations by classmates, visual aids, instructor’s use of video and audio materials)
Assignments (includes tests, out-of-class written work, in-class written work, presentations)
Communication (includes email, conferences in office hours)
Department business (includes department memos, email lists, meetings with faculty advisor and Director of Graduate Studies)
Texts (includes required course texts, texts on reserve at library, syllabus and other handouts, email discuss lists)
Time (students’ use of Department Flexible Time and Incomplete policies should be noted on the Accommodation Plan as well)

Procedure

1. After informing the Director of Graduate Studies of his or her disability and registering with Disability Services, the student should begin drafting an accommodation plan. He or she may wish to consult the Disability Resource Collection, the Director of Graduate Studies, the Individual Faculty Advisor, or Disability Services.

2. When the drafted plan is complete, the student meets with the Director of Graduate Studies to go over the draft. The Director may approve the plan or request modifications to the plan. If the student contests the modifications, a counselor from Disability Services will be asked to decide if the accommodation is appropriate or not.

3. When the Director of Graduate Studies approves the accommodation plan and signs it, the student will receive a copy for use in conferencing with instructors, and the original will be kept in the student's file.

4. Once a year the student should review the accommodation plan and revise it for approval if necessary.

TRANSFER CREDIT

Students who enroll in the MA program after doing graduate work elsewhere may transfer up to three courses in English and American literature or related areas; this process requires approval by the Graduate School. Those who enroll in the PhD program after doing graduate work elsewhere may receive transfer credit for up to nine courses in English and American literature or related areas; this is a department-only determination. The number and appropriateness of courses for which credit is given, as well as the particular distribution and course work requirements they fulfill, are determined by the Director of Graduate Studies in consultation with each student at the beginning of the first term of study.

The English department also accepts transfer work toward the language requirement.

To be considered for transfer credit, a course must have received a grade of B or better and have been completed no more than seven years before the MA or PhD is completed at the University of Oregon. (See "Time Limit" below.)

RESIDENCY REQUIREMENTS

DEPARTMENT

The departmental residency requirement for MA and PhD students is nine graduate seminars taken at the University of Oregon.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

Students enrolled in an advanced degree program must attend the university continuously, except for summers, until all program requirements have been completed, unless on-leave status (maximum of three academic terms) has been approved. In the term the degree is received, the graduate student must register for at least three graduate credits.

For PhD students, the Graduate School requires that at least one academic year—termed the "year of residency"—be spent in residence on the Eugene campus after the student has been officially admitted to the doctoral program. During the year of residency the student is expected to make progress toward the degree by completing course credit and satisfying doctoral degree requirements. The residency year consists of three consecutive terms of full-time study, with a minimum of nine completed graduate credits a term. (A doctoral candidate may fulfill the residency requirement during the period in which he or she works toward a master’s degree on the university campus as long as the student has been officially awarded the master’s degree, the doctoral degree program immediately follows the master’s degree program, and both the master’s degree and the doctoral degree are in the same discipline.)

TIME LIMIT

MASTER OF ARTS
Students must complete all work for the master’s degree within seven years, including transferred credits, thesis, and the language requirement.

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY
The required year of residency spent on the Eugene campus, the passing of the comprehensive examinations required for advancement to candidacy, and the completion of the doctoral dissertation must all be accomplished within a seven-year period.

COURSES

SEMINARS
Graduate course work must be taken at the 600 (seminar) level, and enrollment in these courses will be limited to 15 students.

Although English 611 (Composition GTF Seminar I), English 612 (Composition GTF Seminar II), and English 613 (GTF Composition Apprenticeship) are required for GTF eligibility, they do not count toward MA or PhD seminar requirements.

500-LEVEL COURSES
Exceptions to the 600-level requirement must be approved in advance by the Director of Graduate Studies. English graduate students are blocked from enrolling in 500-level English courses (except for the Old English sequence, ENG 528/529/530) until the graduate secretary is notified of the Director’s approval.

READING-AND-CONFERENCE COURSES
Doctoral students may substitute reading-and-conference courses (English 605) for two of the required 18 seminars, with the advance approval of the individual faculty advisor and the Director of Graduate Studies, in consideration of the student’s program needs.

To be approved for degree credit, such courses must be in subjects not scheduled to be taught as seminars during the graduate student’s course work or be designed as a continuation of a seminar project in the student’s area, and must include reading and writing requirements comparable to a seminar. For such work the student must submit a Permission to Register for Individualized Study form to the graduate secretary. (See Appendix B)
INTERDISCIPLINARY COURSES

Doctoral students may substitute seminars taken outside the English department for two of the required 18 seminars, with the approval of the individual faculty advisor and the Director of Graduate Studies, when necessary and appropriate to the student's individual plan of study. (Courses not designated "English" but taught by English department faculty are not counted as "outside" courses.)

ENROLLMENT

The Graduate School requires that full-time graduate students enroll for 9-16 credits per quarter. The typical course load per quarter for English graduate students is two seminars (10 credits), but students are often enrolled in teacher-training courses and/or language courses, giving them more credits. In addition, graduate students are expected to enroll for a certain number of 601 "Supplemental Reading and Research" credits each term that reflect the unofficial work they do pertaining to their studies (reading groups, study groups, writing projects, research). To enroll for English 601, use the Permission to Register for Individualized Study form: sign up for the appropriate number of units, P/N, call the course "Supplemental Reading and Research" (no course description is necessary), and have the director of graduate studies or an advisor sign the form (See Appendix B). Submit the form to the graduate secretary, and register electronically as soon as registration is approved (usually by the next day). All students in the program must enroll for 16 credits each quarter: their regular academic credits plus enough 601 Supplemental Reading and Research credits to equal 16.

GRADING

All graduate course work counting for degree credit must be taken graded, with the exception of English 503 (Master's Thesis), English 603 (Dissertation), and English 609, Terminal Project. (The Graduate School regulations require that both the MA thesis and the PhD dissertation be evaluated P/N—"pass/no pass.") Classes "counting for degree credit" are those used to fulfill the 12 (MA) or 18 (PhD) course requirements, language classes used to fulfill the language requirement (as opposed to language courses used to prepare for the requirement, which may be taken P/N), English 611 (Composition GTF Seminar I) and English 613 (Composition Apprenticeship). Reading-and-conference hours, language classes, internships, workshops, and interdisciplinary courses may be taken P/N if they are not fulfilling degree requirements. (English 611 and 612, designed to prepare students for GTF eligibility, are graded; English 613 is P/N. These courses are required for GTF preparation but do not count toward the MA or PhD as such.) The decision to take courses that do not fulfill degree requirements should be made by the student in consultation with the individual faculty advisor.

A grade of B- is the lowest grade acceptable in graduate course work (this does not apply to language courses, which have their own minimum grades). Courses in which a student receives a grade of C+ or below will not count toward fulfilling degree requirements.

MA students must maintain a minimum 3.50 cumulative grade point average in graduate courses, PhD students a minimum 3.50 cumulative GPA.
INCOMPLETES
Faculty should discourage their advisees and students in their courses from taking incompletes. During the regular school year, the time pressures of the quarter system make it difficult for students to complete course work from previous terms while also doing their best work in current classes and, typically, teaching a course of their own. Further, incompletes can delay or even cancel a GTF appointment. Students must fulfill all GTF progress requirements, including finishing incompletes, in order to receive their GTF appointments for the upcoming academic year. The deadline for GTF progress is June 15. (See “Faculty Advising” for an explanation of the difference between academic requirements and GTF progress requirements and “Timetables for Yearly Progress Toward the PhD.”)

Incompletes held over the summer pose problems as well. Many faculty members are away from campus when the deadline for summer extensions occurs at the end of the eight-week summer session (early August). When it is necessary for a student to finish an incomplete over the summer, the student and faculty member must submit a departmental Summer Extension Agreement form (see Appendix C), where they will specify a due date for clearing the incomplete before the end of summer session.

ON-LEAVE STATUS
Masters students and doctoral students who have not yet advanced to candidacy may take a leave of absence, subject to the approval of the Director of Graduate Studies and the Graduate School, by registering for on-leave status. Only graduate students in good standing are eligible.

Application forms are available at http://gradschool.uoregon.edu/onleave_inabsentia_intro.html. The form must be filled out (online) and signed by the student, approved by the Director of Graduate Studies, and submitted to the Graduate School for approval by the last registration day of the term in question. On-leave status is granted for a specified time period that may not exceed three academic terms, excluding summer session. Students with on-leave status are not required to pay fees; however, they must register and pay fees if they will be using university facilities or faculty or staff services during that term.

IN ABSENTIA REGISTRATION
For doctoral students who have advanced to candidacy, another period of leave is allowed: a single academic year of registration in absentia, subject to the approval of the Director of Graduate Studies, the Department Head, and the Graduate School. When registering in absentia, the doctoral candidate acknowledges that he or she will not be using any university or faculty services (no examinations are being taken, no committee changes are being processed, and no dissertation chapters are being submitted for review). This in absentia registration maintains the student’s status as a degree candidate until the student’s return to active enrollment as long as it falls within the seven-year time limit. See Graduate School Procedures and Policies for more information.
MASTER OF ARTS DEGREE

Does not apply to students admitted to the PhD program.

COURSEWORK
12 seminars: 3 seminars as designated below and 9 more in an individual plan of study, chosen in consultation with the individual faculty advisor and approved by the Director of Graduate Studies. In addition, the Composition Pedagogy Sequence is required for graduate students who intend to teach in the University’s Composition Program.

All M.A. students must take:

ENG 690: Introduction to Graduate Studies

In addition, each student will work with his or her adviser to select ONE seminar from area A, B, or C and ONE seminar from area D, E, or F below, for a total of TWO seminars. (Film and folklore seminars are included under the appropriate time period.)

A. Pre-1500
B. Renaissance
C. 1660-1800

D. 19th Century
E. 20th Century
F. Rhetoric or advanced theory

To fulfill a distribution requirement, a seminar must expose students to a significant variety of texts and/or cultural contexts relevant to the time period. The Director of Graduate Studies will assist M.A. students to select appropriate coursework for sufficient background in theory, depending on their undergraduate preparation. 500-level theory courses may be approved when appropriate for this purpose.

MASTER’S THESIS OPTION
An MA thesis (English 503) may substitute for one of the twelve courses with prior approval from the Director of Graduate Studies.

A student wishing to write a master’s thesis asks a faculty member to act as thesis advisor and two other faculty members to act as readers; the three faculty members who agree constitute the MA thesis committee. Over the course of the terms the thesis is written and defended, the student registers for a total of nine credits of English 503. After the thesis committee approves the written text, an oral defense is scheduled through the graduate secretary.
The thesis is a substantial scholarly essay. Formatting should follow guidelines set by the Graduate School in the University of Oregon Style and Policy Manual for Theses and Dissertations (available on-line at http://gradschool.uoregon.edu/thesis_tools/manual98.pdf).

The number of credits (nine) is a Graduate School requirement; the English department allows English 503 to substitute for only one of the 12 seminars, which means that electing the thesis option adds four credits to the requirement for the degree.

Grade Point Average
A cumulative minimum GPA of 3.50 in all graduate course work is required in order to receive the MA degree.

Language Requirement
MA candidates must demonstrate reading competence in one foreign language, usually French, German, Russian, Spanish, Italian, Latin, or Greek. Candidates wishing to meet the requirement with languages other than these must petition the Graduate Committee in advance for approval. If approved, competence in a language not taught or tested at the University of Oregon will be determined by the Director of Graduate Studies in consultation with the appropriate department or with experts in the target language. Reading competence may be demonstrated by:

- An average grade of B+ or better for the year in the Old English sequence (English 528, 529, 530); [Note: the Old English sequence fulfills several requirements at once: in addition to fulfilling the reading competence language requirement, the sequence counts as three "approved seminars," and one of those courses may fulfill the pre-1500 seminar requirement for doctoral students.]
- A grade of B or better in the last term of a second-year language course or an approved 300-, 500-, or 600-level literature course with readings in the target language;
- Scoring at the specified percentile or better on the College Level Examination Program Foreign Language Test. The CLEP is administered by the Counseling and Testing Office. The minimum scores are 62 for French, 63 for German, and 66 for Spanish, on a scale of 20-80.
- Passing the Toronto Medieval Latin exam, MA level.

MA students must complete the language requirement by the time they file for the degree (by the spring of the second year). There is a seven-year limit on foreign language course work.

Residency
The departmental residency requirement is nine graduate seminars taken at the University of Oregon. This residency requirement equals three-quarters of the total twelve seminars required for the MA. (For students with transfer credits, see "Transfer Credits.")
FILING FOR DEGREE

The Application for Advanced Degree form, available online at http://darkwing.uoregon.edu/percent7Egradsch/advanced-degree_app.html, must be filed in the Graduate School by the second week of classes in the term of graduation. When the department receives notice that a student has filed for a degree, the graduate secretary reviews the file to verify eligibility and, if all degree requirements have been met, submits a Statement of Completion to the Director of Graduate Studies. Once the Director approves, the graduate secretary files an online MA statement of completion with the Graduate School. All grade changes, removals of incompletes, and transfer work necessary to complete the degree requirements must be filed with the Graduate School the term prior to the term of graduation. (See the “MA Checklist” in Appendix F.)

MASTER OF ARTS/DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY IN ENGLISH WITH A CONCENTRATION IN FOLKLORE

Folklore may be selected as an area of concentration in the MA or PhD program in English. The Folklore Program also offers its own Master of Arts degree in Interdisciplinary Studies: Individualized Program: Folklore. For information on folklore studies and degrees, contact Lisa Gilman, Program Director, or go online to http://www.uoregon.edu/~flr/.
DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY DEGREE

COURSE WORK
18 seminars total; six in designated areas, twelve in an individual plan of study, chosen in consultation with the individual faculty advisor and approved by the Director of Graduate Studies. In addition to the 18 seminars, the Composition Pedagogy Sequence is required.

- Two required courses
  1. English 690, Intro to Graduate Studies, fall term entering year
  2. English 614, Intro to Literary & Cultural Theory, W or S term entering year

- Two seminars from Areas A, B and C and two from areas D, E, and F (film and folklore seminars are included under the appropriate time period):
  A. Pre-1500
  B. Renaissance
  C. 1660-1800
  D. 19th Century
  E. 20th Century
  F. Rhetoric or advanced theory

To fulfill a distribution requirement, a seminar must expose students to a significant variety of texts and/or cultural contexts relevant to the time period.

- 12 additional seminars distributed according to an individual plan of study:
  Prior to the second year of study in the PhD program and in consultation with the individual faculty advisor, each student must have an approved individual plan of study that will help provide the knowledge and scholarly tools essential to her or his chosen field of expertise. The deadline for submission of the plan of study is June 1 of the first year. (See the “PhD Checklist” in Appendix G.)

GRADE POINT AVERAGE
A cumulative minimum GPA of 3.50 in all graduate course work is required to receive a PhD in English.

LANGUAGE REQUIREMENT
PhD candidates must demonstrate either high proficiency in one foreign language or reading competence in two foreign languages, usually French, German, Russian, Spanish, Italian, Latin, or Greek. Competence in American Sign Language or a computer language can fulfill one language requirement at the reading competence level. Candidates wishing to meet the requirement with languages other than these must petition the Graduate Committee in advance for special approval. Competence in a language not taught or tested at the University of Oregon will be determined by the Director of Graduate Studies in consultation with the appropriate department or experts in that language.

High proficiency may be demonstrated by:
- A grade of A- or better in an approved 500- or 600-level literature course, with readings in the target language;
- Passing the Toronto Medieval Latin exam, PhD level.

Reading competence may be demonstrated by:
- An average grade of B+ or better for the year in the Old English sequence (English 528, 529, 530); [Note: the Old English sequence fulfills several requirements at once: in addition to fulfilling the reading competence language requirement, the sequence counts as three "approved seminars," and one of those courses may fulfill the pre-1500 seminar requirement for doctoral students.]
- A grade of B or better in the last term of a second-year language course or an approved 300-, 500-, or 600-level literature course with readings in the target language;
- Scoring at the specified percentile or better on the College Level Examination Program Foreign Language Test. The CLEP is administered by the Counseling and Testing Office. The minimum scores are 62 for French, 63 for German, and 66 for Spanish, on a scale of 20-80.
- Passing the Toronto Medieval Latin exam, MA level.

Students who choose to satisfy the PhD language requirement by demonstrating high proficiency in one language must complete the requirement during the second year of progress. Those demonstrating reading competence in two languages must complete the first language during the first year of progress and the second language during the second year of progress. There is a seven-year limit on foreign language course work. ASL courses are offered in the College of Education. The Computer Science Dept. recommends CS 210 and/or 211; since these courses have prerequisites, they require instructor permission.

Teaching Requirement
Students earning the PhD from the English department are required to teach for at least one term; to secure a GTF appointment in the English department, they must enroll in and successfully complete the department’s year-long composition teacher-training program (English 611, English 612, English 613). Graduate students ordinarily do this in their first year in order to assure eligibility for GTF support in the following years. Appointments and reappointments are determined by policies outlined in the General Duties and Responsibilities Statement. Questions about GTF appointments should be directed to the Graduate Appointments Committee.
PHD BREADTH EXAMINATION

The Ph.D. Breadth Examination includes written (take-home) and oral components. It is based on reading lists, generated by the student and her examining committee and then approved by the Graduate Committee. Doctoral students take the breadth exam at the beginning of their fourth year of study, or at the beginning of the second term after they finish course work (if they enter with transfer credits).

ORGANIZATION

During Winter term of the third year of study, the student and her advisor select two examination fields chosen for proximity to and/or importance for the separate, primary research field and project. These fields may provide broad familiarity with readings, texts, or methods that will inform dissertation research, and may also develop areas of relevant professional or teaching competence. They may include historical field(s) adjacent to the primary research field; genres; or areas of critical theory. For example, a student working on eighteenth-century British novels might choose nineteenth-century British literature and the novel as her two “breadth” fields. A student working on monsters in medieval literature might choose early modern literature and an appropriately broad body of critical theory (e.g. feminist or psychoanalytic theory).

The Graduate Committee is notified of this choice by the sixth week of Winter term and appoints one examiner for each of the “breadth” fields. Working with these faculty members, the student generates reading lists to be submitted to the Director of Graduate Studies no later than the fourth Friday of Spring term, along with the Ph.D. Oral Examination materials (see below). Reading lists must give full bibliographic citations, and the formatting of bibliographic entries must be consistent.

ADMINISTRATION

Questions for each section of the exam are based on the reading list, but students are expected to be able to discuss the works on the list in the broader context of the area in question, whether it is literary history, genre, or critical theory. Both exams are to be completed sequentially within the space of one week during the second half of September. 48 hours will be allowed to prepare the written part of each examination, with a length limit of 10 pages (12 point, double spaced). The Director of Graduate Studies administers the exam, collecting and collating questions from the examiners and copying the question sheet to each examinee’s advisor as well as to the Graduate Secretary. The student will pick up the question sheet from the Graduate Secretary at 9 a.m. the first day of the exam and return the exam by 9 a.m., 48 hours later.

If the student achieves a grade of Pass or High Pass on each written exam, it is followed by an oral evaluation, administered within the first two weeks of the fall term. This constitutes more than just a defense of the written portion: it is an opportunity for faculty to ask additional questions on the reading list. Each written exam is graded, and the oral exam administered, by the student’s advisor along with the examiners in the “breadth” fields; i.e., the oral exam committee consists of the adviser and the two examiners in the respective fields. The oral exam length is two hours, divided evenly between the two fields.

Students who fail either part of the written exam do not take the oral portion until they have retaken the failed written part. Retakes will take place no later than the end of Fall term of the fourth year, resulting in postponing the Ph.D. Orals to Winter of that year and the Dissertation Prospectus due date to the end of Spring term of that year.

PhD Oral Examination

The PhD oral examination tests graduate students’ expertise within the area that constitutes their specialization. Students are expected to be conversant in the primary works and secondary criticism of their special fields and have a general grasp of major critical and theoretical issues in the discipline of literary studies as it is constituted at present. The oral format is intended to encourage students preparing for the exam to develop the skills necessary to converse effectively with others in the discipline.

Students who begin the graduate program with a BA take the exam after completion of all course work, usually during the fall term of their fourth year. Students who enter with an MA in English normally take the exam during the fall term of their third year. All preceding progress requirements—course work (and incompletes), breadth examination, and language—must be completed by this point. If a student requires special accommodations for this exam, he or she must receive approval from the Graduate Committee in advance.

A student preparing for the oral exam consults with the individual faculty advisor about an appropriate faculty member to ask to serve as the exam committee chair, who should be an expert in the student’s special field (and not necessarily the individual faculty advisor). Once a faculty member agrees to be committee chair, the student and chair work together to develop oral exam materials (see below). Students should begin working with their oral exam chair no later than the winter term preceding the spring term deadline for submission of oral exam materials.

Organization

The oral exam has two parts, approximately one hour and 15 minutes each:

- part I, a one-hour-and-15-minute question period regarding the special field;
- part II, a 20-minute oral presentation (usually the reading of a paper) on a topic related to the dissertation, followed by a question period regarding the presentation and its contexts.

Ideally, the PhD oral examination comes well after the student has established breadth of knowledge of the discipline and at the end of course work in his or her special field. The oral exam is an opportunity to focus (in part I) on some aspect of the dissertation, and to demonstrate (in part II) expertise in the special field to which that dissertation belongs. (If a student has not yet identified a dissertation topic by the time of the oral examination, part I should be a well-focused exploration of some aspect of the special field that will lead to clarity about the dissertation.)

Oral Exam Materials

Students prepare materials for each part of the exam and submit them to the Graduate Committee for approval. Oral exam materials (shaded boxes) are due the second Friday of spring term:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Oral Exam</th>

<tbody>
<tr>

<td>Special field reading list</td>
<td>Project description</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Project reading list</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Reading lists must give full bibliographic citations, and the formatting of bibliographic entries must be consistent.

Project Description

The project description introduces the argument of the project as well as its critical context in one to three single-spaced pages. It must be specific enough to clarify the relationship of the part I topic to the anticipated dissertation topic and the special field (part II), and it must be titled.

The project description may include a paragraph explaining the special field or the reading lists.

Reading Lists

Part I: This list reflects the area or special field which provides a context for the dissertation. That field must be identified in a title to the list. Each student is expected to master both primary materials and any important historical, critical, and theoretical works relevant to those materials. The list should be substantial, perhaps 100 to 125 items, and represent those texts that constitute the particular field of study.

Part II: This list should represent the readings necessary for the part II project and should contain all primary works under discussion, similar primary works that will be useful for comparison, and key critical and theoretical texts. This list is more than a "works cited" for the paper; a particular student’s list may include primary works, biographical studies, standard editions of a work, scholarship raising textual issues, theoretical contexts of the study, major critical studies in the area, and historical works, but lists will vary according to the project. Length of lists will also vary, but the reading list should reflect the part II project and its larger context, perhaps a minimum of ten to 15 items.

Submission and Approval

Before submitting the oral examination project description and reading lists to the Graduate Committee for approval, students write and revise a proposal in consultation with the oral exam committee chair. The Graduate Committee will not evaluate oral exam materials lacking the chair's signature of approval. The Graduate Committee will review the materials to assure uniformity in scope of projects, but the evaluation of content and quality will be the responsibility of the oral exam chair.

After approving materials, the committee chair signs his or her approval in the upper right-hand corner of page one of the oral exam materials:

ADMINISTRATION

The oral exam committee has three members: the chair and two members selected by the Graduate Committee (ideally, one from within the special field, one from an adjacent field).
The student works with the graduate secretary to schedule the exam at a time when all committee members can meet. At the exam, copies of the project paper must be distributed to all members of the committee. (Whether the student also submits the paper to committee members for review and comment before the exam should be decided by the student and the chair in consultation with the other members of the committee.) Oral exams must be completed by the end of finals week fall term.

The exam is two and a half hours long, the time equally divided between part I (the special field) and part II (the project and the dissertation), with a five-minute break between parts. In fairness to the student, the distinction between part I and part II should be clearly maintained. Also in fairness to students, the exam should be neither significantly shorter nor significantly longer than the designated period. There is also an optional written supplement to the oral exam (see below).

Grading

A single grade of pass with distinction, pass, or fail is given for the entire exam. In the event that a student fails the exam, the examining committee provides a written assessment of the student's performance, as well as recommendations for rectifying deficiencies in that performance. Students must retake the entire exam and may request the same exam chair or ask another faculty member to act as chair for the second exam; the Graduate Committee appoints two new members. The retake exam occurs the following quarter. The PhD oral examination may be retaken only once.

PhD Oral Examination Writing Option

As a supplement to the PhD oral exam, a student may choose to complete a written examination on part I. Should a student choose this option, the written supplement is administered one week before the oral exam and read by the student's examining committee prior to the oral exam.

This option does not substitute for any part of the oral examination. Rather, it is an opportunity for students to provide their examining committees with an additional written indication of their knowledge and capabilities and is intended to give them every opportunity to perform well on the PhD exam. The examining committee may or may not choose to ask questions during the oral exam which relate to a student's answers on the written exam. The committee will not penalize a student who does not choose to exercise this option.

The written option, lasting one to two hours, consists of a question or questions based on the student's bibliography for part I of the oral exam.
THE DISSERTATION

DISSERTATION DIRECTOR AND COMMITTEE
The student asks an appropriate faculty member, who is an expert in the student’s special field and ideally in the dissertation topic, to serve as dissertation director. Once a faculty member agrees to direct the dissertation, the student and director consult about other faculty members to ask to serve on the committee.

The dissertation committee includes at least four instructional faculty members holding PhDs with the rank of assistant professor or higher: the dissertation director, two other members of the department awarding the degree whose work is relevant to the candidate’s dissertation topic, and a member from another department whose expertise is relevant. The outside committee member represents the university’s intellectual community and participates on the committee to assure that the work is in dialogue with a wider academic community and to give students the benefit of an outside perspective. Faculty members who belong to other departments but also hold appointments in English (for instance, Comparative Literature faculty who are English department members) cannot serve as outside members, though they can, of course, serve as English members.

Each dissertation committee functions in different ways, and students should clarify, during the process of forming the committee, what role each committee member wishes to play in the writing and revision of the dissertation. Students should be especially aware of the status and plans of their outside readers, who may go on sabbatical or leave the university without notifying students in other departments. The Graduate School requires the outside member’s signature on the prospectus six months before the defense, and failure to realize an outside reader is not available during those six months may significantly delay the defense.

DISSERTATION PROSPECTUS
The prospectus, 20 pages in length including a selected bibliography (approximately ten pages of text and ten pages of bibliography), should contain:

- a cover sheet (see Appendix N);
- a prospectus;
- a selected bibliography of critical and scholarly studies related to the topic.

The prospectus, though brief, should state the dissertation topic and explain it, give the context for the topic, demonstrate familiarity with the field, and, however provisionally, chart the chapters of the study. Like the PhD oral examination project description, the prospectus should be revised and refined in collaboration with the dissertation director and dissertation committee before being submitted. The final document must be technically correct (both the prose and the bibliographic citations) and signed by all committee members, even the outside reader (the cover sheet format for signatures appears in Appendix N). Students will not advance to candidacy until all members of the committee have signed on.

The prospectus is due the last day of classes winter term (or the term following successful completion of the oral exam). Requests for exceptions to this timeline must be made by the student and the dissertation director to the Director of Graduate Studies well in advance of this deadline.

The Director of Graduate Studies will check the prospectus for fulfillment of technical formalities and either approve the prospectus or consult with the student should any changes be necessary. When submitting written work to the Graduate Director, print in Courier 10 or Times Roman 12 fonts (not smaller), single sided, with one-inch margins all around.

ADVANCEMENT TO CANDIDACY

A PhD student is advanced to candidacy after the dissertation prospectus is approved and signed by the entire dissertation committee and the Director of Graduate Studies. (This approval assumes successful prior completion of all other degree requirements.) The advancement itself, which is initiated by the graduate secretary, is done almost entirely online at the Graduate School’s web site. The graduate secretary, the student, and the student’s advisor will be asked to provide information, in response to email prompts from the Graduate School, at various stages in this process. The three-year period for completion of the dissertation begins as of the date of the Graduate School’s approval. However, that three-year rule does not supersede the department’s timeline for completion of the dissertation by GTFs: GTFs are usually required by the department to complete the dissertation in no more than two years after advancement.

DISSERTATION

The PhD dissertation is a substantial work of literary scholarship on a single subject. Length and style vary, but all dissertations must be based on independent and original research, contribute significantly to knowledge in the field, show a mastery of the literature of the subject, be written in an acceptable literary style, and conform to the standards outlined in the MLA Handbook of Style and the University of Oregon Style and Policy Manual for Theses and Dissertations. Students should consult these manuals early in the writing process. Where these two style manuals disagree (regarding, for instance, the spacing of block quotations and formatting chapter titles), the dissertation must follow the University of Oregon style policy. (The university style manual is available on-line at http://gradschool.uoregon.edu/?page=styleManualContents).

In some cases, with the advance approval of the dissertation committee, a dissertation may be a collection of three substantial essays exhibiting internal coherence but not necessarily treating a single precisely defined subject.

DISSERTATION DEFENSE

A formal, public defense must take place on campus at a date set by the dissertation director and approved by the Graduate School. If a student requires special accommodations for this exam, he or she must receive approval from the Graduate Committee in advance. To defend the dissertation, the student must:

- be enrolled for a minimum of three hours (nine for GTFs) both the term prior to defending the dissertation (excluding summer term) and the term of the defense;
- provide the dissertation committee members with a final dissertation manuscript at least three weeks prior to the defense;
- file four copies of the dissertation abstract (350-word maximum) with the Graduate School at the same time;
- notify the Graduate School of the time and place of the defense.

Arranging the final oral defense is another online process, this one initiated by the student in cooperation with his or her dissertation committee members. (Since the online version may take longer than the old paper version to complete, students are strongly urged to plan ahead and begin this process as far in advance of the defense as is feasible.) Once a mutually convenient time and place have been arranged, the student goes online at http://gradweb.uoregon.edu/main/mainStudent.asp, clicks on Oral Defense, and follows instructions. Committee members will then receive emails requesting email confirmation of their agreement to attend the defense; they should agree ONLY if they have read the completed dissertation and find it acceptable. (“Acceptable” means that any revisions still required can be completed by the student in the two-week period between the defense and the deadline for depositing the dissertation with the Graduate School). The online defense process, with the completed Application for Final Oral Defense form (produced online and signed by the Director of Graduate Department Head) and four copies of the dissertation abstract (signed by the dissertation director), must be turned in to the Graduate School at least three weeks before the oral defense.

The dissertation defense is an oral examination; the candidate passes or fails based not on the written dissertation (again, if a defense is held, the written document has already passed) but on her or his ability to discuss the subject, research findings, and methodology and to field questions about the written text and the field.

The defense is a formal, public examination and should be conducted professionally. Protocols for the defense should be established by the dissertation director and communicated to the committee and candidate at the beginning of the defense. Guests should not be present during the committee’s deliberations, and decorations and refreshments are inappropriate at the defense itself.

Residency

The Graduate School requires at least three years of full-time work beyond the bachelor’s degree for the doctorate, with at least one year spent in continuous residence on the Eugene campus. For doctoral students in English this means enrollment in at least two formal English graduate courses (excluding independent study courses [English 601, 603, 605] and teacher-training classes [English 608, 611, 612, 613]) per term for one academic year. This on-campus requirement is usually satisfied during the first full year for which the student has been admitted. The Graduate School regulations specify a minimum of nine credits a term for three consecutive terms to fulfill the doctoral year of residency requirement, and the English department specifies that those consecutive terms run fall through spring.

Filing for Degree

The Application for Advanced Degree form, available at the Graduate School, must be filed in the Graduate School by the second week of classes in the term of graduation. All grade changes and removals of incompletes necessary to complete the degree requirements must be filed with the Graduate School the term prior to the term of graduation. Students must be enrolled the term prior to and the term of graduation.

STRUCTURED EMPHASIS OPTIONS

The structured emphasis option allows faculty members in a shared field to create a special curriculum for their students in order to assure that they receive appropriate and in-depth training.

STRUCTURED EMPHASIS IN ETHNIC LITERARY STUDIES

The structured emphasis in ethnic literary studies requires a sustained engagement with ethnic studies theories and methodologies as well as an interdisciplinary knowledge of U.S. ethnic literary traditions and their interrelationships. Although the structured emphasis is comparative, students must focus on one of the following fields: African American, Asian American, Chicana/o and Latina/o, or Native American literatures. Students are also encouraged to analyze these fields in relation to U.S. and British literary canons as well as the transnational and interdisciplinary contexts integral to their emergence.

PARTICIPATING FACULTY
David Li, Ernesto Martinez, Priscilla Ovalle, Cynthia Tolentino, David Vázquez

REQUIREMENTS

• REQUIRED COURSEWORK: Six seminars as outlined in the regular PhD program in the English Department, at least two of which must substantially engage issues in ethnic literary or cultural studies.

• INDIVIDUAL PLAN OF STUDY: Three English courses in chosen field of focus (African American, Asian American, Chicana/o and Latina/o, or Native American literary and cultural studies), preferably at the 600 level (but at least one at the 600 level).
  Three 500- or 600-level English courses in other areas of ethnic studies.
  Two 500- or 600-level courses outside of English in related areas. These courses should contribute to an understanding of the theoretical, interdisciplinary, and/or transnational contexts of ethnic literary and cultural studies, and they must be chosen in consultation with an adviser.

• EXAMINATION: Pass the structured emphasis exam for the chosen field of focus, within two terms of completion of the core Qualifying Exam. The structured emphasis exam may be retaken one time, no later than the end of the term following the one in which it was originally taken. The exam will be three hours long and students will respond to two questions, chosen from a list of three.

• DISSERTATION: Complete and successfully defend a dissertation with a strong focus on ethnic literary studies with one of the ethnic literature faculty as the director or co-director.
  Students who undertake the structured emphasis will be assigned an adviser in the field of focus. The adviser must review and approve the student's plan of study on an annual basis.
STRUCTURED EMPHASIS IN FILM STUDIES
The structured emphasis in Film Studies is designed for students interested in developing research and teaching skills in the areas of film and cultural studies. Students pursuing this emphasis design a course of study that enables them to develop specialized knowledge of film theory, criticism, and history in addition to a strong foundation in literary studies. This background equips them for advanced, interdisciplinary research on a broad range of cultural texts, as well as teaching careers in departments seeking versatile scholars qualified to teach literature, writing, film studies, and popular culture. Students will take the English Department’s pedagogy courses to learn how to teach composition, and they can also learn dramatic screenwriting as part of their course work, thus further enhancing their qualifications as future teachers of writing. This course of study draws on the English Department film offerings as well as on communications and film-related courses across campus.

PARTICIPATING FACULTY
Michael Aronson, Sangita Gopal, Kathleen Karlyn, David Li, Priscilla Ovalle

REQUIREMENTS
• Distribution Courses: Six distribution courses as outlined in the regular PhD program in the English Department
• Individual Plan of Study:
  Two 600-level English film studies seminars
  Three courses, preferably 600-level, outside of English in film studies or related areas
  Three 500-level English film studies courses
  Two 600-level English 20th century studies courses
  One 600-level seminar in theory
  One 600-level seminar in race or gender studies
  (No course can be used to satisfy two requirements.)
• Film Studies PhD Comprehensive Exam:
  Students completing the Structured Emphasis will be examined on the Film Studies reading list (see appendix) as part of their Comprehensive or Orals Examination. The reading list should be incorporated into Part II of the exam reading lists and participating faculty will pose questions about those works as part of the regular format of the exam.
• Complete and successfully defend a dissertation related to film, media, performance, or cultural studies with at least one of the film faculty on the committee
STRUCTURED EMPHASIS IN FOLKLORE

The structured emphasis in Folklore offers an interdisciplinary approach to expressive arts in the context of ethnic, regional, occupational, age, gender and other traditional identities of individuals in specific communities. Students study the extent to which tradition continues to enrich and express the dynamics of human expression and behavior, often cross-culturally. Folklore courses examine the historical, cultural, social, and psychological dimensions of such expressive forms as myth, speech, legend, music, dance, art, and architecture. Theoretical analysis, research methods, and fieldwork techniques are integral parts of the program’s offerings in folklore.

PARTICIPATING FACULTY:
Dianne Dugaw, Lisa Gilman, Daniel Wojcik

REQUIREMENTS

• Distribution Courses: Six distribution courses as outlined in the regular PhD program in the English Department

• Individual Plan of Study:
  Folklore 681, History and Theory of Folklore Research
  Folklore 607, Folklore Fieldwork; or Video Fieldwork Production

  Two courses in other departments in areas related to folklore (e.g., Literature, Music, Anthropology, Art Administration, or Journalism) as approved by the Folklore advisor

Complete and successfully defend a folklore-oriented dissertation with at least one of the folklore faculty on the committee

After course work, students will proceed to the oral exam and the dissertation under the same guidelines as other English department graduate students.

STRUCTURED EMPHASIS IN LITERATURE AND ENVIRONMENT

The Literature and Environment structured emphasis allows a strong grounding in the evolving theory and practice of this new field, introducing students to the canon of ecocritics, nature writers, and environmental philosophers who have established critical positions in the last three decades. Work in colonial American and nineteenth-century British and American writers on the landscape and natural world and other traditional literary fields can be used to provide backgrounds for contemporary approaches, and interdisciplinary links with other departments and programs on campus allow the student to emphasize environmental concerns in course work in a more focused way than the regular program permits. (Appendix P describes a related course of study, the interdisciplinary Ph.D. in Environmental Studies with English as the focal department.)

PARTICIPATING FACULTY:
Allison Carruth, James Crosswhite, Sangita Gopal, William Rossi, Gordon Sayre

REQUIREMENTS

- Distribution Courses: Six distribution courses as outlined in the regular PhD program in the English Department

- Individual Plan of Study:

  English 569: Literature and the Environment, or, an English 615 course in ecocritical theory.

  Three 600-level seminars in Literature and Environment

  Two environmentally focused courses (500- or 600-level) in other departments, to be determined in consultation with the individual faculty advisor and subject to approval by the Director of Graduate Studies

  One independent study project (English 605), to be worked out in consultation with the individual faculty advisor, defining the intersection of the above courses and serving as a preliminary outline for the student’s oral examination; it may be pursued concurrently as part of the preparation for this exam but will not count toward the fulfillment of department course requirements

Literature and Environment Structured Emphasis Reading List and Exam: The Literature and Environment Structured Emphasis exam must be taken by Fall term of the third year of doctoral study, or, for students entering the doctoral program with an MA, Fall term of the second year. The exam, which is based on a reading list, follows the PhD qualifying exam in format and evaluation. For the reading list and a detailed description of the exam, see Appendix H.
• Complete and successfully defend a dissertation in the discipline of literature and the environment with at least one of the literature and environment faculty on the committee

After course work, students will proceed to the oral exam and the dissertation under the same guidelines as other English department graduate students. Students completing joint PhD degrees in Environmental Studies and English are subject to special requirements.
STRUCTURED EMphasis IN MEDEVAL STUDIES

The Medieval structured emphasis insures a breadth of knowledge in the medieval period and allows the student to put greater emphasis on medieval studies in both course work and the qualifying exam than the regular program permits.

PARTICIPATING FACULTY
Warren Ginsberg, Martha Bayless, Anne Laskaya, Louise Bishop

REQUIREMENTS

- Distribution Courses: Six distribution courses as outlined in the regular PhD program in the English Department

- Individual Plan of Study:

  A year of introductory Latin, to be completed by the time of the PhD qualifying exam. (May have been fulfilled before entering the program if work falls within the seven-year limit. This does not count toward degree credit.)

  Medieval Backgrounds course (offered at 500- or 600-level)

  Nine courses in Old and Middle English or other medieval courses as approved by the individual faculty advisor

  One seminar in Medieval Latin or one term of advanced Classical Latin (students are encouraged to prepare for the Toronto Certificate in Medieval Latin)

  One term minimum of another medieval language or a relevant course in another department

  Elective seminars to bring the total number of seminars to 18

- Structured Emphasis Exam: Students in the structured emphasis option also complete an examination in the field of medieval studies, based on a reading list prepared by medieval studies faculty (the reading list appears in Appendix E). The student will write an essay on one of three questions. Three hours are provided for the exam and the essay should be no longer than 10 pages. This exam will be scheduled some time between the PhD Qualifying exam and the PhD Oral exam in consultation with the individual faculty advisor. Unless there are pressing reasons otherwise, it should be taken in the spring following the fall in which the student takes the Qualifying Exam.

- Complete and successfully defend a dissertation in the discipline of medieval studies with at least one of the medieval studies faculty on the committee

After the structured emphasis exam and course work, students will proceed to the oral exam and the dissertation under the same guidelines as other English department graduate students.
STRUCTURED EMPHASIS IN POETRY AND POETICS

PARTICIPATING FACULTY:
James Crosswhite, Karen Ford, Lisa Freinkel, John Gage, Warren Ginsberg, Paul Peppis, Forest Pyle, George Rowe, Ben Saunders, Steven Shankman

The structured emphasis in Poetry and Poetics offers a theoretically diverse and historically broad study of poetry and poetic theory, which provides students with a rigorous training in the formal, rhetorical, and historical understanding of poetry. The participating faculty is comprised of an open roster of scholars who embrace a wide range of critical approaches and whose research and teaching interests extend from Early Modern to postmodern poetry in a variety of British, North American, and post-colonial Anglophone traditions. This structured emphasis will prepare students to write a dissertation on the topic and in the period of their choosing. It will also train students in the teaching of poetry; those graduate students pursuing this concentration will be encouraged to teach the department’s introductory course in poetry when scheduling and resources make it possible. Finally, a structured emphasis in poetry and poetics provides students and faculty alike with an advanced forum for the collective consideration of the problems and possibilities of poetry.

REQUIREMENTS
☐ Distribution courses: ENG 690, ENG 614, and four distribution courses as outlined in the regular PhD program in the English Department.
☐ Six additional courses, preferably at the 600 level, chosen in consultation with a Poetry & Poetics advisor.
☐ Individual plan of study:
   ENG 608: Poetics Colloquium
   Three courses devoted to poetry or poetics, preferably at the 600 level.
   Two courses devoted to poetry or poetics, preferably at the 600 level, in departments other than English, when available.

The examination reading list for the Poetry structured emphasis can be found at http://www.uoregon.edu/~engl/graduate/PoetryReadList.pdf.

Poetry and Poetics Examination: The Close Reading
During the final term of course work and following the submission of the oral examination reading list, the student will perform a close reading of a poem before the assembled participating faculty. On the morning of the exam, the student will be given three poems; he or she will choose one poem and will have six hours to prepare. This oral presentation, which will include a recitation of the poem, is designed to reflect the student’s understanding of the relevant portions of the reading list in poetry and poetics as well as his or her interpretation of the poem in question. The close reading, which will include questions from the assembled faculty following the presentation by the student, will last two hours, and the discussion will begin with the questions—why did you choose this poem rather than one of the others?—to give the student an opportunity to remark briefly on all three poems. The assembled participating faculty will determine whether the student has passed or failed the examination. In the event of a failed exam, the student will have one opportunity to retake the exam later in the term.

After the completion of course work and the close reading, students will proceed to the oral exam and the dissertation under the same guidelines as other graduate students. Students will complete and successfully defend a dissertation that devotes significant attention to poetry and/or poetic theory with at least one of the participating faculty serving on the committee.
STRUCTURED EMPHASIS IN RHETORIC & COMPOSITION

The structured emphasis in Rhetoric and Composition Rhetoric provides historically rich and theoretically diverse resources for the study of discourse over a wide range of issues, from the question of how to teach writing to controversies about philosophical and scientific reasoning. The rhetoric and composition structured emphasis provides training in the history of rhetoric, in rhetorical theory, and in rhetorical criticism. Students must maintain a minimum GPA of A- in course work taken to satisfy the emphasis.

PARTICIPATING FACULTY:
James Crosswhite, John Gage, Anne Laskaya

REQUIREMENTS

- Distribution Courses: Six distribution courses as outlined in the regular PhD program in the English Department
- Individual Plan of Study:
  - In the first two years of study, complete, for graded credit:
    - English 515 Theories of Literacy
    - English 592 History of Rhetoric and Composition
    - English 593 Modern Rhetorical Criticism
  - and two seminars in the field, typically English 691 (repeatable) and/or another seminar designated by the rhetoric faculty
  - In the first and second years of study, complete:
    - English 611 Composition GTF Seminar I
    - English 612 Composition GTF Seminar II
    - English 613 Composition Apprenticeship
    - and satisfactorily teach both WR 121 and 122 (or 123)
- 2 hours of 605 credit to be taken simultaneously with or directly following 611, for research and a paper on composition pedagogy. This credit will be arranged through whomever is teaching 611.
- Complete one term of English 605 in a designated internship under faculty supervision, 1-4 graded credit hours
  (Note: Internships may be coordinated through the Center for Teaching Writing, the Community Literacy Program, the Composition Program, the Oregon Writing Project, or other areas designated by the rhetoric faculty, with projects to be agreed on by the student and one rhetoric faculty serving as internship supervisor. This course will not count toward degree progress.)
- Participate in a colloquium on professional development in rhetoric and composition in the spring term of dissertation year one, together with the rhetoric faculty and others in the field (Note: The colloquium will be merged with the on-going student-faculty reading group in rhetoric and composition, and will carry 5 hours of 605 credit once only, with a supervised project, for those students completing the emphasis; it will not count toward degree progress.)

Rhetoric and Composition Structured Emphasis Reading List and Exam:
The reading list (see appendix) serves students in the emphasis to use as background to prepare a formal presentation paper, like a conference paper, timed to follow sometime after the PhD qualifying exam. All participating faculty are encouraged to attend the presentation, which will be followed by a brief question and answer period. This presentation will be in lieu of an exam for the emphasis.

After course work, students will proceed to the oral exam and the dissertation under the same guidelines as other English department graduate students.

- Complete and successfully defend a dissertation in the discipline of rhetoric and composition with at least one of the rhetoric faculty on the committee
JOB PLACEMENT PROGRAM

The current Graduate Job Search Advisor for the department is Prof. Lara Bovilsky (bovilsky@uoregon.edu). She is available during office hours in PLC 246 or by appointment to answer questions about the job search process and to counsel job seekers about their strategies and application materials. We encourage all students to become informed about the job market but also caution everyone not to get ahead of the game; doing well in seminars, writing a strong dissertation, and building one’s teaching skills are the most important goals for graduate students in the first few years of the program. Only those nearly finished with the dissertation should begin applying for jobs.

The primary resource for information about the job market is the department’s Job Search Handbook, written and revised annually. The handbook answers many frequently asked questions about the process, offers advice, and includes sample CVs, cover letters, and other application materials.

English 608, Workshop for Job Seekers, is a one-credit, P/NP course offered in fall term. Weekly meetings will provide a forum for sharing and improving participants’ application documents. It will culminate with mock interviews and practice job talks. The course is intended only for those actively committed to the job search.
FELLOWSHIPS AND AWARDS

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT FELLOWSHIPS AND AWARDS

GRADUATE TEACHING FELLOWSHIPS

Most graduate students in English are eligible for Graduate Teaching Fellowships (GTFs) on the basis of successful completion of teacher-training seminars, teaching experience, language proficiency, and progress toward their degree. The award includes a stipend and a waiver of Oregon graduate tuition (except for certain fees). Teaching appointments are not available for first-year graduate students who have only a BA and no college-level teaching experience. (See “Teaching Assistantships” below.)

The English department provides a year-long teacher-training program for new graduate students who wish to make themselves eligible for GTF appointments for their second year of study. The program consists of English 611, Composition GTF Seminar I, in winter term (1-3 credits); English 613, GTF Composition Apprenticeship, in the winter and/or spring terms (depending on demand and the availability of supervising teachers) (1-3 credits); and a series of non-credit class observations during the non-apprenticeship term. First-year GTFs are also required to take English 612, Composition GTF Seminar II (1-3 credits), during the fall term of their first year of teaching.

All GTF appointments are determined by the Graduate Appointments Committee. Because of uncertainties in funding, the department cannot guarantee that every student who completes the teacher-training program successfully will be given a GTF appointment, although qualified students have received GTF appointments in the past. (For more details about Composition GTF appointments, see Componere.)

The English department also provides a spring term workshop on teaching literature, ENG 608, required for GTFs wishing to be considered for teaching literature courses.

TEACHING ASSISTANTSHIPS

The English department has available each year a small number of one-year teaching assistantships (TAships) for incoming students, an award which includes a stipend and a waiver of Oregon graduate tuition (except for certain fees). TAs serve as writers and editors for the department newsletter, tutors, and assistants for other jobs related to the profession. Teaching Assistantships are usually offered to those individuals with the best academic records who have no previous teaching experience and are therefore not eligible for Graduate Teaching Fellowships during their first year of study. (See “Graduate Teaching Fellowships” above.)

JANE CAMPBELL KROHN FELLOWSHIP

This fellowship is awarded to the most promising first-year graduate student in the area of Literature and Environment. This research fellowship carries a stipend, tuition waiver, and an academic support fund (for conference travel, books, journals, and other professional expenses). After the research fellowship year, the recipient will retain the title of Krohn Fellow and the balance of the academic support fund while he or she is a graduate student in good standing in the program.

Rudolf Ernst Dissertation Fellowship Award
This dissertation fellowship offers a stipend equal to a GTF salary, including a tuition waiver, for one term to a student with an exemplary graduate record whose dissertation is considered to be especially promising.

Sarah Harkness Kirby Essay Prize
This $150 prize is awarded to the student who writes the best seminar paper each quarter.

Jane Campbell Krohn Essay Prize in Literature and Environment
The Jane Campbell Krohn Prize for the best essay by a second-year graduate student in English on the theme of literature and the environment. The winner receives $300.

Ecocritical Fund
The Ecocritical Fund supports research and conference travel related to ecocritical studies. Requests should be made to the Department Head. University of Oregon travel policies apply.

Sherwood Travel Grant
Support for students traveling to do research. Requests should be made to the Department Head. University of Oregon travel policies apply.

Department of English Travel Grant
Support for students giving papers at conferences. Requests should be made to the Department Head. University of Oregon travel policies apply.

University Fellowships and Awards
Questions about general scholarships, loans, and financial aid information should be addressed to the Office of Financial Aid (541-346-3221). Information about Financial Aid for graduate students is also available on the Graduate School website, under “Funding Sources for Graduate Students” (http://gradschool.uoregon.edu/?page=fundingResources). For information on funding opportunities for international students, contact the Office of International Education and Exchange, 346-3206.

Eric Englund Scholarship
A $2000 scholarship awarded each year to a University of Oregon undergraduate who intends to pursue post-graduate study in the field of American literature or American history and related subjects (for instance, American Studies, American Civilization, American Folklore, and American Ethnic Studies).
UNIVERSITY OF OREGON DOCTORAL RESEARCH FELLOWSHIPS
This fellowship offers support (currently $16,000 stipend plus tuition waiver) for a student in the final year of doctoral work; one student per year may be nominated by the department. Contact the Graduate School, 346-5129.

GRADUATE STUDENT RESEARCH AWARDS
These awards reimburse students for expenditures in support of thesis or dissertation-related research and/or travel to make conference presentations related to thesis/dissertation topics (the number of awards per year varies; $500 per student). Students apply through the English Department Graduate Committee: in the fall of each year, students may apply for funds by submitting a cover letter explaining the need for support, a CV, an abstract of a conference paper if funds are being requested for travel to a conference, and (eventually) verification that the paper has been accepted to a conference. Support will not be limited to conference travel, however; students should apply for research funds to offset the cost of travel to collections, libraries, or conferences. Given that we usually have only a few awards to offer, students should apply in the fall even if they have not yet heard whether their papers have been accepted to conferences. If a student receives an award but does not attend the conference, that funding will go to the next student on the list.

Requests will be ranked by members of the Graduate Committee, who will consider the student’s academic record, year in program, quality of the project, prestige of the conference, distance to travel, and prior academic awards. The Graduate Committee will also aim to distribute awards equally among various fields. Priority will be given to students who will not be receiving funding from other sources. Students with Incompletes in course work should not apply. No second requests will be granted until all first requests are filled.

TARGET OF OPPORTUNITY LAUREL AWARDS
The TOLA fellowships offer tuition waivers for students of color with strong academic records (U.S. Citizens/Permanent Residents only). Contact the Graduate School, 346-5129.

MARGARET McBRIDE LEHRMAN AWARD
The McBride Lehrman Awards (available in alternate years) support graduate students who have extreme financial need in fields emphasizing communication, especially writing ($10,000 stipend plus tuition waiver). Departments nominate candidates. Check the Graduate School’s web site at http://gradschool.uoregon.edu/funding_res.html.

CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF WOMEN IN SOCIETY GRADUATE AWARDS
Awards for graduate students whose area of specialization involves research or creative work on gender, feminist theory, or aspects of women’s experiences; travel grants, $100-$400; research grants, $100-$2,000; Jane Grant Dissertation Fellowship, $10,000; International Laurel Research Award, $2,500; Laurel Research Award, $2,500. Contact CSWS, 346-5015, or website, http://csws.uoregon.edu/grants/index.shtml.
HUMANITIES CENTER FELLOWSHIPS

The Oregon Humanities Center offers support for advanced dissertation research with humanistic emphasis. Contact Humanities Center, 346-1001.

COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES SCHOLARSHIPS

The Everett D. Monte Scholarship ($1,000) goes to one graduate student in the dissertation year; the Mary Chambers Brockelbank Endowed Assistance Fund ($500-$1,000) is available to students of limited means; the Risa Palm Graduate Fellowship ($1,000) goes to one or more graduate students. Contact CAS, 346-3950.

For information on these and other internal and external funding opportunities (such as Ford Foundation Fellowships, Fulbright Fellowships, NSF Fellowships, Woodrow Wilson Grants in Women's Studies, etc.), students may visit the UO Funding Library in the Graduate School, 125 Chapman Hall. The funding library has information in print and electronic form and each term sponsors workshops on funding searches.
EXTRA-CURRICULAR OPPORTUNITIES

ENGLISH GRADUATE ORGANIZATION
The English Graduate Organization (EGO) is composed of all graduate students in the department who wish to participate in discussions on a variety of professional and scholarly topics twice a term at casual “wine and cheese” meetings. Faculty members are often invited to participate in the discussions and answer questions regarding graduate student concerns and issues of the discipline. EGO also hosts an annual fall picnic to welcome new graduate students and faculty to the English department and a spring party to congratulate recent graduates, polls graduate students regarding student membership on departmental committees, and runs an annual book sale. Contact Jeni Rinner, 2008-2009 EGO president (rinner@uoregon.edu).

STUDENT/FACULTY READING GROUPS

MESA VERDE
Mesa Verde is a group of graduate students and faculty, both within the English department and from other departments, who are interested in the study of literature and the environment. As a group, they are involved in several different activities. They sponsor an on-going colloquium series which provides an opportunity for graduate students and faculty to present their current work in the field. They also meet regularly to discuss ecocritical texts and related works in environmental philosophy, public policy, and film. And they occasionally go camping. There is no need to define yourself as an ecocritic to attend their meetings. They have a full range—medievalists to Americanists—in their ranks. If you are interested in the topic and in good company, you are welcome to subscribe to their email list and join them.

MODERNISM GROUP
The Modernism Reading Group meets monthly to read and discuss modernist literature and criticism. Readings include primary works, critical works from the period, and recent critical and theoretical works on modernism and modernity. A memo announces the first meeting and lists the readings for the year. Contact Karen Ford (fordk@uoregon.edu) or Paul Peppis (ppeppis@uoregon.edu).

OREGON MEDIEVAL ENGLISH LITERATURE SOCIETY
The Oregon Medieval English Literature Society (OMELS) provides a forum for graduate students in medieval English and related fields to discuss relevant literature and scholarship. Originally founded as a reading group to foster retention of nascent Old English literacy, the group has expanded its focus to include later medieval English literature as well. Topics of recent meetings include “Pearl,” “Piers Plowman,” and Richard Rolle; ideas for our sessions are generated by students who wish to learn more about a given subject. Anyone with an interest in medieval literature—whether as a specialty or as a diversion—is invited to attend. Contact Martha Bayless (mjbayles@uoregon.edu).
WOMEN’S DISCUSSION GROUP

This informal group is for women graduate students interested in exchanging graduate school experiences and strategies. Gatherings will provide an opportunity to talk about academic and professional issues and other questions of interest to the group. In addition, this is a forum for sharing work and getting feedback on ideas and papers. Each quarter a guest professor will share her experiences in graduate school and on the job market. The group meets twice a term at a location near campus. Contact Megan Benner (mbenner@uoregon.edu) for further information.

FILM AND MEDIA GROUP

The UO Film and Media Group is an interdisciplinary organization dedicated to the academic study and enjoyment of cinema, television, and new media. The group welcomes participants from all academic disciplines who share a passion and a critical interest in film and media. Because the study of film and media takes place in numerous departments at the University of Oregon, one of our primary goals is to establish an organization in which film and media scholars around the University can communicate with one another about their shared interests.

The Film and Media Group offers monthly film screenings followed by informal discussion, as well as a film and media reading group. The reading group will meet three times a term to discuss important and relevant works of film and media criticism or theory. In future terms we plan to offer an open-to-the-public film series that coincides with the English Department’s Film History courses and a colloquium on film and media studies related topics.

If you are interested in participating in the group, please contact Chelsea Bullock (cbullock@uoregon.edu).

COMICS READING GROUP

The UO Comics Reading Group is a forum which serves the interests of those involved in research, criticism, and teaching related to comics art and visual media. We also welcome casual readers and comics newcomers. All aspects of comics and cartooning from around the world are open for discussion. Likewise, we welcome critical approaches and reading suggestions from all disciplinary perspectives. The group's common ground is its foundation in scholarship and its willingness to examine the givens of comics form, culture, and history. We helped organize UO’s 2009 Understanding Superheroes conference as well as put together panels for other academic conferences. We also attend comics related events and film screenings. We participate on an email discussion listserv and meet 2-3 times a quarter to discuss primary and secondary readings. To be added to the email list and to receive reading schedule updates, email Kom Kunyosying (kkunyosy@uoregon.edu).

(Note: This list contains readings in critical theory but does not stipulate primary texts, that is, titles of films. Mass media texts are ephemeral, and the goal of graduate education in film studies is not to study “film classics” but rather to understand how the mass media use narrative and genre in the light of ongoing historical, technological, and institutional change. This reading list establishes a firm methodological base which will allow students to evaluate a film’s style and narration from a variety of theoretical perspectives. Students are expected to use this list as the basis for the Special Field exam and to modify it as needed in consultation with their advisors.)

APPENDIX G - STRUCTURED EMPHASIS IN LITERATURE AND ENVIRONMENT EXAMINATION
READING LIST

The Examination
Students in the Literature and Environment Structured Emphasis take a written examination no later than the Fall Term of their third year of study for the Ph.D at Oregon. (This is not part of the Ph.D. Qualifying Exam.) Students entering the doctoral program with an MA will take the exam in the Fall term of their second year. The examination will be given once every year on the Saturday following the first week of Fall classes. If a student requires special accommodations for this exam, he or she must receive approval from the Graduate Committee in advance.

The exam will cover a reading list of two parts: (1) Primary works, and (2) Theoretical works. It is assumed, however, that in addition, the student will have familiarity with the materials on the reading lists for the Ph.D. Qualifying Exam on either British Literature After 1798 or American Literatures, and will be able to refer to relevant works on those lists from an ecocritical perspective.

Questions for the exam are based on the Literature and Environment Structured Emphasis Reading List provided below. However, students are expected to be able to discuss these works in the broader context of British and American literary history, demonstrating a general awareness of both that history and contemporary challenges to it. Questions on the exam typically ask the student to discuss a range of appropriate primary works from the perspective of particular theoretical concepts on the list.

Everyone scheduled to take the exam receives an information letter, a copy of the reading list, and sample questions from previous exams.

The exam can be retaken once, in the Spring Term of the same academic year in which the exam is first taken. Students who do not pass the exam the first time will have an advising conference with a faculty member who was not one of the readers of the exam, in order to discuss ways to improve performance on the second attempt. Students who do not succeed on the second attempt will not be able to continue the Structured Emphasis in Literature and Environment.

Evaluation of this exam will follow the model of the Qualifying Exam evaluation.

APPENDIX O - ENGLISH DEPARTMENT REQUIREMENTS FOR ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES (ESSP) PHD STUDENTS WITH ENGLISH AS A FOCAL DEPARTMENT

1. History of English Cooperation with Environmental Studies Ph.D. Program (ESSP—Environmental Sciences, Studies, and Policy—a "Joint Campus Interdisciplinary Graduate program" including OSU, PSU, and UO).

In 1997, when the ENVS Ph.D. Program was established, English Department Head Molly Westling worked with the English Department Council and the full English Department faculty on a cooperative agreement by which ENVS Ph.D. students would be welcomed into our department with the understanding that they would complete most of the requirements fulfilled by English Ph.D. students, but adapted to coordinate with the interdisciplinary nature of their ENVS program requirements. When applying for graduate admission, these students would have to complete an application for the ENVS Ph.D. program, with additional English application materials submitted to ENVS, and be acceptable to both entities in order to gain admission.

2. Courses and Exams
ENVS Ph.D. students with English as the focal department will be allowed to fulfill some English Department course requirements with courses in other departments, with the consultation and approval of the Director of Graduate Studies (at least three courses, rather than the two normally allowed). They will take the ENG Breadth Exams, as do Ph.D. students in English, choosing one breadth field in an interdisciplinary area that brings together their work in English with their work in one or both of their other ENVS areas of concentration.

ENVS requires two Ph.D. exams as “Assessments of Competence: (See website: http://envs.uoregon.edu/graduate/doctoralabout.php) The interdisciplinary ENVS exam will be folded into the English Ph.D. oral examination, adding one ENVS participating member to the examining committee and a Part III to the reading list covering the interdisciplinary aspect of the student’s project. The outside member of the examining committee is chosen from among faculty who have taught courses the candidate has taken. The English Department Director of Graduate Studies selects this member from a list provided by the student. For these students the exam time will be extended 30 minutes to accommodate the interdisciplinary Part III.

3. The Prospectus
The Prospectus will be written as in English normally, but with a much more interdisciplinary, environmental studies approach.

4. The Dissertation Committee
The committee must have at least five members as stipulated by ENVS guidelines. The chair and two additional members must be from the English department. At least three members of the committee must be participants in the Environmental Studies Program.
