GENERAL INFORMATION

THE INDIVIDUAL FACULTY ADVISOR AND INDIVIDUAL PLAN OF STUDY

Students are admitted to either the Master of Arts or the Doctor of Philosophy program.

Those entering the PhD program with a bachelor’s degree can be awarded an MA en route to the PhD when they have successfully completed sufficient work. If students enrolled in the MA program in English want to continue graduate work in the University of Oregon English department PhD program, they must apply for admission to the doctoral program. Both programs offer students great flexibility in determining their course of study, but the differences between the MA and the PhD requirements must be kept in mind when planning a student’s curriculum.

The MA curriculum includes three required “distribution” seminars (including ENG 690, Introduction to Graduate Studies) and nine additional seminars in any area (a master’s thesis may substitute for one seminar) for a total of twelve seminars. The PhD requires six “distribution” seminars (including ENG 690, Introduction to Graduate Studies, and ENG 614, Introduction to Literary and Cultural Theory) and twelve additional seminars in any area, for a total of eighteen seminars. The twelve undesignated seminars in the PhD and the nine undesignated seminars in the MA constitute the individual plan of study. Students work with faculty advisors to develop that plan. (See “Transfer Credit” on p.10, for information on transferring graduate coursework.)

At the start of the academic year, all new students are advised by the Director of Graduate Studies. During the winter quarter of their first year in the program, new students are assigned individual faculty advisors by the Director of Graduate Studies. Since the advisor is an expert in the student’s area of interest, faculty members may be assigned more than one student.

The student and advisor develop an individual plan of study and submit it to the Director of Graduate Studies for approval by June 1 of the first year. This plan projects course work for the student’s entire graduate career, based on the published schedule of English seminars for the upcoming year and the tentative two-year seminar plan (Appendix A). (The submitted plan can be changed later, subject to the same approval process.)

In choosing classes for the individual plan of study, it is extremely important to remember that academic requirements (referred to in this manual as “requirements counting toward the degree” or “degree credit”) correspond to GTF progress requirements. Academic requirements include course work, work in a language or languages, exams, and theses or dissertations; GTF progress requirements stipulate the timeline for completion of academic and teacher-training work in order for a student to be eligible for a GTF appointment. To assist in balancing these two sets of requirements, each student’s checklist includes the dates by which specific academic requirements must be completed to maintain eligibility for a GTF appointment (see “Timetables for Yearly Progress Toward the PhD” on p. 29).
The Individual Plan of Study includes two documents:

- The PhD or MA Checklist with itemized completed and anticipated course work. For PhD students: if relevant, structured emphasis information (pertaining to classes, breadth, and major field exams) (see “PhD Checklist”, appendix L and “Structured Emphasis Options”, appendix D through I);

- A one-page letter identifying the student’s areas of specialization and giving a rationale for the plan of study, signed by advisor and student.

The Director of Graduate Studies evaluates the plan and consults with the student and advisor if there are any questions or suggestions. The approved plan of study is signed by the Director of Graduate Studies and filed in the department office. The student and advisor each receive a copy of the approved plan.

By the time PhD students begin their second year of work in the program, they should have a good working relationship with their individual faculty advisors and an approved individual plan of study. MA students are assigned either general advisors or advisors in specialized areas, if they declare an area of specialization.

After being assigned an advisor in their first year, MA and PhD students may choose a new advisor at any point if they identify a faculty member who is a better fit for their interests and professional needs and who agrees to advise the student. Once the new advisor has agreed to advise the student, the student must let the prior advisor know (thanking them for their service) and must alert the Director of Graduate Studies and the Graduate Coordinator of the change.

Students should consult the individual faculty advisor on all aspects of their careers: success and helpful strategies for course work, examinations, foreign language requirements, degree progress, interdisciplinary opportunities, reading groups, conferences, publication, research, writing and oral communication skills, professionalism, and career planning. All students are also welcome to consult with the Director of Graduate Studies at any time.

POLICY FOR GRADUATE STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Students using the Policy must be registered with the Accessible Education Center.

The Department of English will make every effort to arrange accommodations when warranted and to adhere to the following:

1. The department will compile and make available a collection of resources regarding legislation, university policies, Accessible Education Center publications, department policies, and descriptions of successful accommodations in English and in other departments. The Disabilities Resource Collection will include a set of “Guidelines for Working with Students with Disabilities” and these will be updated over time and enforced under the guidance of the Department Head and the Director of Graduate Studies. The “Guidelines” will address instructional strategies for assuring reasonable accommodation for students with specific disabilities.

2. Faculty will make reasonable accommodations to assure equal access to all course materials for all students, regardless of the nature of their disabilities. (See “Individual Academic Accommodation Plan” on p. 9)
3. The student will be encouraged to meet with their instructors in advance of the beginning of classes to devise and agree upon any alternative time lines deemed necessary given the specific disability. (See “Individual Academic Accommodation Plan” on p. 9)

4. The department will arrange Flexible Time policies for relevant aspects of the program at the request of the student, which may result in a written agreement between faculty and student or department and student for major accommodations. The department will not penalize the student for delays that occur under an agreed-upon alternative time line.

5. “Incompletes” may be used under the Flexible Time policy according to the following guidelines:

   A. The time line (not to exceed double time) for completing the course will offer the student both more time for research and writing and a set time for completion of course work. Under this agreement the student is expected to complete the work within the stipulated period and the faculty member to continue acting as instructor and mentor throughout the agreed-upon period. If the student does not finish the work for the course within the Flexible Time period, the course will then be treated as a conventional Incomplete.

   B. The grade of Incomplete will be used in these cases; however, the written Flexible Time agreement will be filed with the Director of Graduate Studies, who will assure that the grade is not treated as a conventional Incomplete in the following ways.

      i. The Graduate School, upon notification by the Director of Graduate Studies, will not send a letter of warning regarding Incomplete grades during the Flexible Time period.

      ii. The Appointments Committee, upon notification by the Director of Graduate Studies, will not penalize the student for Flexible Time Incompletes during the Flexible Time period.

6. Upon request from a student with a disability, their Graduate Teaching Fellow (GTF) assignments will be made early for ordering textbooks and scheduling accessible classrooms.

7. A GTF’s supervisor will meet with the GTF in advance of the start of classes to establish procedures and accommodations that will be necessary for the GTF with a disability to fulfill their assignment.

8. Collaborative teaching assignments between a GTF with a disability and one other GTF may be arranged.

9. The Director of Graduate Studies will assist in the implementation of this policy.
INDIVIDUAL ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATION PLAN

The Individual Academic Accommodation Plan allows graduate students with disabilities to request accommodations from the English Department. The graduate student is responsible for drafting the plan, according to the “Guidelines” below, though they should consult with the Accessible Education Center office and the Director of Graduate Studies.

Guidelines
For every accommodation requested, the student should address the following points:
- Describe the accommodation requested,
- Indicate, in as much detail as possible, how the accommodation will aid successful participation in class or successful completion of progress requirements,
- Describe what action or cooperation is necessary on the part of the instructor (or other Department staff) for the success of the specific accommodation,
- If known, indicate what other campus offices will be involved in the accommodation.

Areas in which accommodations may be requested:
- Access to classrooms
- Access to classroom activities (including lectures, group work and discussions, presentations by classmates, visual aids, instructor’s use of video and audio materials)
- Assignments (includes tests, out-of-class written work, in-class written work, presentations)
- Communication (includes email, conferences in office hours)
- Department business (includes department memos, email lists, meetings with faculty advisor and Director of Graduate Studies)
- Texts (includes required course texts, texts on reserve at library, syllabus and other handouts, email discuss lists)
- Time (students’ use of Department Flexible Time and Incomplete policies should be noted on the Accommodation Plan as well)

Procedure
1. After informing the Director of Graduate Studies of their disability and registering with the Accessible Education Center, the student should begin drafting an accommodation plan. The student may wish to consult the Disability Resource Collection, the Director of Graduate Studies, the Individual Faculty Advisor, and/or the Accessible Education Center.

2. When the drafted plan is complete, the student meets with the Director of Graduate Studies to go over the draft. The Director may approve the plan or request modifications to the plan. If the student contests the modifications, a counselor from the Accessible Education Center will be asked to decide if the accommodation is appropriate or not.

3. When the Director of Graduate Studies approves the accommodation plan and signs it, the student will receive a copy for use in conferencing with instructors, and the original will be kept in the student’s file.

4. Once a year the student should review the accommodation plan and revise it for approval if necessary.
TRANSFER CREDIT

Students who enroll in the MA program after doing graduate work elsewhere may transfer up to three courses (15 credits) in English and American literature or related areas; this process requires approval by the Director of Graduate Studies and the Graduate School. Those who enroll in the PhD program after doing graduate work elsewhere may receive transfer credit for up to nine courses in English and American literature or related areas; this is a department-only determination. The number and appropriateness of courses for which credit is given, as well as the particular distribution and course work requirements they fulfill, are determined by the Director of Graduate Studies in consultation with each student at the beginning of the first term of study.

The English department also accepts transfer work toward the language requirement.

To be considered for MA transfer credit, a course must have received a grade of B or better and have been completed no more than seven years before the MA is completed at the University of Oregon. (See “Time Limit” on p. 11)

RESIDENCY REQUIREMENTS

DEPARTMENT

The departmental residency requirement for MA and PhD students is nine graduate seminars taken at the University of Oregon.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

Graduate students enrolled in an advanced degree program are required to be continuously enrolled at the University of Oregon, except for summers, until all program requirements have been completed, unless on-leave status (maximum of six academic terms) has been approved. In the term the degree is received, the graduate student must register for at least three graduate credits (if all coursework has been completed before the term in which the student graduates), or at least three graduate credits (if coursework is being completed during the term in which the student graduates). Any term, including Summer, that the graduate student is using university facilities or faculty or staff services, the student must be enrolled for a minimum of 3 credits.

For PhD students, the Graduate School requires that at least one academic year—termed the “year of residency“—be spent in residence on the Eugene campus after the student has been officially admitted to the doctoral program. During the year of residency the student is expected to make progress toward the degree by completing course credit and satisfying doctoral degree requirements. The residency year consists of three consecutive terms of full-time study, with a minimum of nine completed graduate credits a term. (A doctoral candidate may fulfill the residency requirement during the period in which he or she works toward a master’s degree on the university campus as long as the student has been officially awarded the master’s degree, the doctoral degree program immediately follows the master’s degree program, and both the master’s degree and the doctoral degree are in the same discipline.)
Time Limit

MASTER OF ARTS
Students must complete all work for the master’s degree within seven years, including transferred credits, thesis, and the language requirement.

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY
The required year of residency spent on the Eugene campus, the passing of the comprehensive examinations required for advancement to candidacy, and the completion of the doctoral dissertation must all be accomplished within a seven-year period.

COURSES

SEMINARS
Graduate course work must be taken at the 600 (seminar) level, and enrollment in these courses will be limited to 15 students.

Although English 611 (Composition GTF Seminar I), English 612 (Composition GTF Seminar II), and English 613 (GTF Composition Apprenticeship) are required for GTF eligibility, they do not count toward MA or PhD seminar requirements.

500-LEVEL COURSES
Exceptions to the 600-level requirement must be approved in advance by the Director of Graduate Studies. English graduate students are blocked from enrolling in 500-level English courses (except for the Old English sequence, ENG 528/529/530) until the Graduate Coordinator receives approval from the Director of Graduate Studies.

READING-AND-CONFERENCE COURSES
Doctoral students may substitute reading-and-conference courses (English 605) for two of the required 18 seminars, with the advance approval of the individual faculty advisor and the Director of Graduate Studies, in consideration of the student’s program needs.

To be approved for degree credit, such courses must be in subjects not scheduled to be taught as seminars during the graduate student’s course work or be designed as a continuation of a seminar project in the student’s area, and must include reading and writing requirements comparable to a seminar. For such work the student must submit a Permission to Register for Individualized Study form to the Graduate Coordinator. (See Appendix B)

INTERDISCIPLINARY COURSES
Doctoral students may take seminars outside the English department with approval in advance, of the individual faculty advisor and the Director of Graduate Studies as well as the course instructor. (Courses not designated “English” but taught by English department faculty are not counted as “outside” courses.) Normally, no more than two outside courses will be approved. Additional coursework outside the department may be approved when necessary and appropriate to the student’s individual plan of study.
Enrollment
The Graduate School requires that full-time graduate students enroll for 9-16 credits per quarter. The typical course load per quarter for English graduate students is two seminars (10 credits), but students are often enrolled in teacher-training courses and/or language courses, giving them more credits. In addition, graduate students are expected to enroll for a certain number of 601 “Supplemental Reading and Research” credits each term, which reflect the unofficial work they do pertaining to their studies (reading groups, study groups, writing projects, research). To enroll for ENG 601, use the Permission to Register for Individualized Study form. Sign up for the appropriate number of units, P/N, and have the Director of Graduate Studies (for general 601 hours) or an advisor (for exam and prospectus preparation) sign the form (Appendix B). Submit the form to the Graduate Coordinator, and register electronically when an email is received confirming that the system has been updated to allow your registration (usually by the next day).

All full-time students in the program must enroll for 16 credits each quarter: their regular academic credits plus enough 601 Supplemental Reading and Research credits to equal 16.

Grading
All graduate course work counting for degree credit must be taken graded, with the exception of English 503 (Master’s Thesis), English 603 (Dissertation), and English 609, (Terminal Project). (Graduate School regulations require that both the MA thesis and the PhD dissertation be evaluated P/N—”pass/no pass.”) Classes “counting for degree credit” are those used to fulfill the 12 (MA) or 18 (PhD) course requirements and language classes used to fulfill the language requirement (as opposed to language courses used to prepare for the requirement, which may be taken P/N). Reading-and-conference hours, language classes, internships, workshops, and interdisciplinary courses may be taken P/N if they are not fulfilling degree requirements. (English 611 and 612, designed to prepare students for GTF eligibility, are graded; English 613 is P/N. These courses are required for GTF preparation but do not count toward the MA or PhD as such.) The decision to take courses that do not fulfill degree requirements should be made by the student in consultation with the individual faculty advisor.

A grade of B- is the lowest grade acceptable in graduate course work (this does not apply to language courses). Courses in which a student receives a grade of C+ or below will not count toward fulfilling degree requirements. Note: MA and PhD students must maintain a minimum 3.50 cumulative grade point average in graduate courses.

Incompletes
Faculty should discourage their advisees and students in their courses from taking incompletes. During the regular school year, the time pressures of the quarter system make it difficult for students to complete course work from previous terms while also doing their best work in current classes and, typically, teaching a course of their own. Further, unresolved incompletes can delay or even cancel a GTF appointment. Students must fulfill all GTF progress requirements, including finishing incompletes, in order to receive their GTF appointments for the upcoming academic year. The deadline for GTF progress is June 15. (See “Faculty Advising,” on p. 6 for an explanation of the difference between academic requirements and GTF progress requirements and “Timetables for Yearly Progress toward the PhD,” on p. 29)
Incompletes held over the summer pose problems as well. Many faculty members are away from campus when the deadline for summer extensions occurs at the end of the eight-week summer session (early August). When it is necessary for a student to finish an incomplete over the summer, the student and faculty member must submit a departmental Summer Extension Agreement form (Appendix C), where they will specify a due date for clearing the incomplete before the end of summer session. If the incomplete is not cleared before the end of summer session, a student is likely to lose their GTF.

Exception: students engaged in writing the dissertation will receive the grade of I (Incomplete) each term. This is the grade that indicates satisfactory work; for progress requirements during the dissertation process.

ON-LEAVE STATUS

Masters students and doctoral students may take a leave of absence, subject to the approval of the Director of Graduate Studies and the Graduate School, by registering for on-leave status. Only graduate students in good standing are eligible. MA students are eligible for up to three terms of leave; doctoral students, six terms (excluding summer sessions).

Students apply for on-leave status via GradWeb; the Director of Graduate Studies and/or the Department Head will sign the on-leave request form generated by Gradweb and the Graduate Coordinator will process the approved request through GradWeb. Students with on-leave status are not required to pay fees; however, they must register and pay fees if they will be using university facilities or faculty or staff services during that term. See http://gradschool.uoregon.edu/policies-procedures/leave for more information.
MASTER OF ARTS DEGREE

Does not apply to students admitted to the PhD program.

COURSEWORK
12 seminars: 3 seminars as designated below and 9 more in an individual plan of study, chosen in consultation with the individual faculty advisor and approved by the Director of Graduate Studies. In addition, the Composition Pedagogy Sequence is REQUIRED for graduate students who intend to teach in the University’s Composition Program.

All MA students must take:

ENG 690: Introduction to Graduate Studies

In addition, each student will work with his or her adviser to select ONE seminar from area A, B, or C and ONE seminar from area D, E, or F below, for a total of TWO seminars. (Film and folklore seminars count toward an appropriate time period based on course content.)

A. Pre-1500
B. Renaissance
C. 1660-1800

D. 19th Century
E. 20th and/or 21st Century
F. Rhetoric or advanced theory

To fulfill a distribution requirement, a seminar must expose students to a significant variety of texts and cultural contexts relevant to the time period. The Director of Graduate Studies will assist MA students to select appropriate course work for sufficient background in theory, depending on their undergraduate preparation. 500-level theory courses may be approved when appropriate for this purpose.

MASTER’S THESIS OPTION
An MA thesis (English 503) may substitute for one of the twelve courses with prior approval from the Director of Graduate Studies.

A student wishing to write a master’s thesis asks a faculty member to act as thesis advisor and two other faculty members to act as readers; the three faculty members who agree constitute the MA thesis committee. Over the course of the two terms the thesis is written and defended, the student registers for a total of nine credits of English 503. After the thesis committee approves the written text, an oral defense is scheduled by the Graduate Coordinator.

The thesis is an article-length essay, typically developing work begun in a seminar. The article should be submitted to a journal after the thesis is defended. Formatting should follow guidelines set by the Graduate School in the University of Oregon Style and Policy Manual for Theses and Dissertations (available on-line at http://gradschool.uoregon.edu/thesis-dissertation/style-manual).
The number of credits (nine) is a Graduate School requirement; the English department allows English 503 to substitute for only one of the 12 seminars, which means that electing the thesis option adds four credits to the requirement for the degree.

Grade Point Average

A cumulative minimum GPA of 3.50 in all graduate course work is required in order to receive the MA degree.

Language Requirement

MA candidates must demonstrate reading competence in one foreign language, usually French, German, Russian, Spanish, Italian, Latin, or Greek. Candidates wishing to meet the requirement with languages other than these must petition the Graduate Committee in advance for approval; these petitions are usually granted. If approved, competence in a language not taught or tested at the University of Oregon will be determined by the Director of Graduate Studies in consultation with the appropriate department or with experts in the target language. Reading competence may be demonstrated by:

- An average grade of B+ or better for the first two terms in the Old English sequence (i.e., the first two of English 528, 529, 530). [Note: the Old English sequence fulfills several requirements at once: in addition to fulfilling the reading competence language requirement, all courses in the sequence count as “approved seminars” and one of those courses may fulfill a pre-1500 seminar requirement.]
- A grade of B or better in the last term of a second-year language course or an approved 300-, 500-, or 600-level literature course with readings in the target language. Both the French and Spanish one-term courses “for reading knowledge” (e.g., French 510 or Spanish 510) will meet the MA language requirement. The first two terms of German for Reading Knowledge, GER 327 and 328, are required to meet the MA language requirement.
- Scoring at the specified percentile or better on the College Level Examination Program Foreign Language Test. The CLEP is administered by the Counseling and Testing Office. The minimum scores are 59 for French, 60 for German, and 63 for Spanish, on a scale of 20-80.
- Passing the Toronto Medieval Latin exam, MA level.

MA students must complete the language requirement by the time they file for the degree (by the spring of the second year). There is a seven-year limit on foreign language course work; that is, all foreign language course work must have been completed within seven years of receiving the MA degree.

Residency

The departmental residency requirement is nine graduate seminars taken at the University of Oregon. This residency requirement equals three-quarters of the total twelve seminars required for the MA. (For students with transfer credits, see “Transfer Credits,” on p. 10)
FILING FOR DEGREE

The Application for Advanced Degree form, (available online at http://gradschool.uoregon.edu/node/152), must be filed in the Graduate School by the second week of classes in the term of graduation. When the department receives notice that a student has filed for a degree, the Graduate Coordinator prepares the file for the Director of Graduate Studies to verify eligibility and that all degree requirements have been met. Then the Graduate Coordinator submits a Statement of Completion to the Director of Graduate Studies and the Department Head for final approval. Once the Department Head approves, the Graduate Coordinator files an online MA statement of completion with the Graduate School. All grade changes, removals of incompletes, and transfer work necessary to complete the degree requirements must be filed with the Graduate School the term prior to the term of graduation. (See the “MA Checklist”, Appendix J.)

MASTER OF ARTS/DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY IN ENGLISH WITH A CONCENTRATION IN FOLKLORE

Folklore may be selected as an area of concentration in the MA or PhD program in English. The Folklore Program also offers its own Master of Arts degree. For information on the Folklore Program and degrees, contact Philip Scher, Folklore Program Director, at pscher@uoregon.edu, or go online to http://folklore.uoregon.edu.
DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY DEGREE

COURSE WORK
18 seminars total; six in designated areas, twelve in an individual plan of study, chosen in consultation with the individual faculty advisor and approved by the Director of Graduate Studies. In addition to the 18 seminars, the Composition Pedagogy Sequence is required.

- Two required courses
  1. English 690, Intro to Graduate Studies, fall term entering year
  2. English 614, Intro to Literary & Cultural Theory, W or S term entering year (or in the second year of study, with permission of the Director of Graduate Studies)

- Two seminars from Areas A, B and C and two from areas D, E, and F (film and folklore seminars are included under the appropriate time period):

  A. Pre-1500
  B. Renaissance
  C. 1660-1800
  D. 19th Century
  E. 20th and/or 21st Century
  F. Rhetoric or advanced theory

Note: Students may not use two courses from a single area (e.g. two from Area B) to fulfill the distribution requirements. To be counted as a given Area, a seminar must expose students to a significant variety of texts and cultural contexts relevant to the time period.

- 12 additional seminars distributed according to an individual plan of study:

  Prior to the second year of study in the PhD program and in consultation with the individual faculty advisor, each student must have an approved individual plan of study that will help provide the knowledge and scholarly tools essential to their chosen field of expertise. The deadline for submission of the plan of study is June 1 of the first year. (See the “PhD Checklist”, Appendix L.)

GRADE POINT AVERAGE
A cumulative minimum GPA of 3.50 in all graduate course work is required to receive a PhD in English.

LANGUAGE REQUIREMENT
PhD candidates must demonstrate either high proficiency in one foreign language or reading competence in two foreign languages, usually French, German, Russian, Spanish, Italian, Latin, or Greek. Competence in American Sign Language or a computer language can fulfill one language requirement at the reading competence level. Candidates wishing to meet the requirement with languages other than these must petition the Graduate Committee in advance for special approval; these petitions are usually granted. Competence in a language not taught or tested at the University of Oregon will be determined by the Director of Graduate Studies in consultation with the appropriate department or experts in that language.

High proficiency may be demonstrated by:
- Being a native speaker of any non-English language;
- A grade of A- or better in an approved 500- or 600-level literature course, with readings in the target language;
- Passing the Toronto Medieval Latin exam, PhD level.

Reading competence may be demonstrated by:
- An average grade of B+ or better for the first two terms in the Old English sequence (English 528, 529, 530); [Note: the Old English sequence fulfills several requirements at once: in addition to fulfilling the reading competence language requirement, the sequence counts as three “approved seminars,” and one of those courses may fulfill the pre-1500 seminar requirement for doctoral students.]
- A grade of B or better in the last term of a second-year language course or a grade of B or B+ in an approved 300-, 500-, or 600-level literature course with readings in the target language;
- Scoring at the specified percentile or better on the College Level Examination Program Foreign Language Test. The CLEP is administered by the Counseling and Testing Office. The minimum scores are 59 for French, 60 for German, and 63 for Spanish, on a scale of 20-80.
- Passing the Toronto Medieval Latin exam, MA level.

Students who choose to satisfy the PhD language requirement by demonstrating high proficiency in one language must complete the requirement by the end of the final year of coursework. Those demonstrating reading competence in two languages ideally will complete the first language during the first year of progress and the second language during the second year of progress. ASL courses are offered in the College of Education. The Computer Science Dept. recommends CS 210 and/or 211; since these courses have prerequisites, they require instructor permission.

Teaching Requirement
Students earning the PhD from the English department are required to teach for at least one term; to secure a GTF appointment in the English department, they must enroll in and successfully complete the department’s year-long composition teacher-training program (English 611, English 612, English 613). Graduate students ordinarily complete ENG 611 and 613 in their first year in order to assure eligibility for GTF support in the following years. ENG 612 is taken in the fall during the GTF’s first term of teaching, normally in the second year of study. Appointments and reappointments are determined by policies outlined in the General Duties and Responsibilities Statement (GDRS). Questions about GTF appointments should be directed to the Graduate Appointments Committee.

PhD Breadth Examination
The PhD Breadth Examination includes written (take-home) and oral components. It is based on reading lists generated by the student and their examiners that are then approved by the Graduate Committee. Doctoral students normally take the breadth exam at the beginning of their final year of coursework. Students entering with an MA in English will often take the exam during the fall of their second year of study, or no later than the beginning of the second term after they finish course work (if they enter with transfer credits). Note: if you have more than a term’s worth of transfer credits, check with the Director of Graduate Studies about the best time to take the breadth exam.

Organization

During Winter term of the second year of study (or the first year of study if the student has 6 or more transfer credits), the student and their advisor select two examination fields chosen for proximity to and/or importance for the student’s separate, primary research field and project. These fields may provide broad familiarity with readings, texts, or methods that will inform dissertation research, and may also develop areas of relevant professional or teaching competence. Breadth fields may be (1) historical field(s) adjacent to the primary research field; (2) genres; or (3) areas of critical theory. Students may have two different kinds of breadth fields (e.g. a historical field and a theoretical field), or two of a single kind of breadth field (e.g. two genre fields or two historical fields).

For example, a student planning to work on eighteenth-century British novels might choose nineteenth-century British literature and the novel as their two breadth fields. A student planning to work on monsters in medieval literature might choose early modern literature and an appropriately broad body of critical theory (e.g. feminist or psychoanalytic theory).

The Graduate Committee is notified of this choice by the end of the sixth week of Winter term and appoints one examiner for each of the breadth fields. Note: normally, breadth examiners will not also serve as members of a student’s Major Field Exam committee. Working with these faculty members, the student generates reading lists to be submitted to the Director of Graduate Studies no later than the fourth Friday of Spring term.

Guidelines for Breadth Field Lists

The breadth lists will be accompanied by a single cover sheet. The cover sheet will include the following:

a) a brief one- or two-paragraph statement explaining the rationale of the breadth areas and the aims of each individual list, including the way each assists the student’s special field and future plans.

b) approval signatures of both breadth examiners who worked with the student to compile the breadth lists.

Lists will consist of roughly 40 numbered entries each (e.g. novels, articles, collections of poems, films). Length and difficulty of the texts may cause this to vary—e.g., a list of nineteenth-century novels might be far shorter than a list of seventeenth-century poems. Note: Obviously, not all lists will easily conform to this numerical guideline, so a prescribed number of texts can only be an approximation; faculty and students with questions should see the Director of Graduate Studies for assistance.

Primary and critical texts will be listed in separate sections. Items on breadth lists will be numbered continuously across sections (i.e., do not begin a new set of numbers in new sections). Fields centering on primary (e.g., literary of film/media) texts need clear intellectual frames, and must also contain at least three critical texts. Fields centering on critical or theoretical texts must also contain at least three primary (e.g., literary or film/media) texts.
For secondary materials like articles and chapters, page numbers of the actual reading to be undertaken will be submitted. The aim of this is to assist students, advisors, and the graduate committee with the task of creating equitable lists across any cadre of students. A collection of essays without designated chapters will be considered as a text read completely for examination purposes. Clarity on the list is crucial for examiners as they prepare questions and conduct the oral portion of the breadth examination. Other types of items may similarly indicate selected reading.

Note: There should be no overlap between breadth and major field lists. For example, if a student specializing in eighteenth-century novels is doing a breadth field on the novel, they will omit novels written during the eighteenth century – the list might include seventeenth-, nineteenth-, and twentieth-century novels.

Reading lists must give full bibliographic citations, and the formatting of bibliographic entries must be consistent. The Graduate Committee may request changes before approving the lists.

ADMINISTRATION

Written component of the Breadth Exam:
Both written exams (one per breadth field) are to be completed sequentially within the space of one week during September (generally the week before Week of Welcome). Between 9:00 a.m. and noon on the day the exam is to begin, the student will choose which field they wish to respond to first. They will receive two questions in that field from the Graduate Coordinator in person or by email (by prior arrangement). The student will answer one of these questions, writing an essay of about ten pages (12-point font, double spaced) over 48 hours. Upon submitting this essay, the student will receive the questions for the other breadth field from the Graduate Coordinator; the second essay is due within 48 hours of receipt. Questions for each section of the exam are written by the examiner and based on the reading list. The Director of Graduate Studies and the Graduate Coordinator administer the exam, collecting and collating questions from the examiners and essays from the students, and copying these materials to the entire breadth committee (the student’s advisor and the two examiners) as needed. During Week of Welcome, the breadth examiners will read the exams and report their evaluation to the Director of Graduate Studies and the Graduate Coordinator. Each examiner will prepare a brief written response to the student’s essay in their field, to be given to the student at the oral component of the exam.

Oral component of the Breadth Exam:
The oral component will be scheduled during the summer by the graduate student and then the Graduate Coordinator will schedule a room for the exam. If the student achieves a grade of Pass on both written exams, the written component is followed by the oral component, administered within the first two weeks of the fall term. The oral component constitutes more than just a defense of the written portion: it is an opportunity for faculty to ask additional questions based on the reading list. Each field will be discussed for 50-60 minutes; the exam is scheduled for 2½ hours. The assigned examiner will take the lead in asking questions about each field, but all faculty will participate in the conversation. At the end of the exam, the student will receive the written responses to their written essays as well as oral feedback about their performance across the entire Breadth Exam.
Students who fail either part of the written exam do not take the oral portion until they have retaken the failed written part. Students who fail the oral component will also have an opportunity to retake the oral component once. Retakes will take place no later than the end of the term following the term in which the exam first took place.

PhD Major Field Examination
The PhD Major Field Exam tests graduate students’ expertise within the area that constitutes their specialization – normally a standard hiring field in their discipline. Students are expected to be conversant in the primary works and secondary criticism of their fields and have a general grasp of major critical and theoretical issues in the field and the discipline of literary, film, or folklore studies as it is constituted at present. The oral format is intended to encourage students preparing for the exam to develop the skills necessary to present work at conferences, to interview on the job market, and to converse effectively with others in the discipline.

Students who begin the graduate program with a BA take the exam after completion of all course work, usually during the Fall term of their fourth year. Students who enter with an MA in English normally take the exam during the Fall term of their third year. All preceding progress requirements—course work (and incompletes), breadth examination, and language—must be completed by this point. If students require special accommodations for this exam, they must receive approval from the Graduate Committee in advance.

A student preparing for the Major Field Exam consults with their individual faculty advisor about an appropriate faculty member to ask to serve as the exam committee chair, who should be an expert in the student’s special field (and often, but not necessarily, the individual faculty advisor). Once a faculty member agrees to be committee chair, the student and chair work together to develop exam materials (see below). Students should begin working with their Major Field Exam chair no later than the Winter term preceding the Spring term deadline for submission of Major Field Exam materials.

Organization
The Major Field Exam has two parts, approximately one hour each:

- part I, a one-hour question period regarding the field of specialization;
- part II, a 20-minute oral presentation (usually the reading of a paper) on a topic related to the dissertation, followed by a question period regarding the presentation and its contexts.

Ideally, the PhD Major Field Exam comes well after the student has established breadth of knowledge of the discipline and at the end of extensive course work in their special field. The exam is an opportunity to focus (in part II) on some aspect of the dissertation, and to demonstrate (in part I) expertise in the larger field to which that dissertation belongs. (If a student has not yet identified a dissertation topic by the time of the Major Field Exam, part II should be a well-focused exploration of some aspect of the field of specialization that will lead to clarity about the dissertation.)
MAJOR FIELD EXAM MATERIALS

Students prepare materials for each part of the exam and submit them to the Graduate Committee for approval. The following Major Field Exam materials are due the second Friday of spring term: (1) special field reading list; (2) written project description; and (3) written project reading list, as described below.

Reading Lists

Reading lists must give full bibliographic citations, and the formatting of bibliographic entries must be consistent.

Part I: This list reflects the broader area or field of specialization which provides a context for the dissertation. That field must be identified in a title to the list. Each student is expected to master both primary materials and any important historical, critical, and theoretical works relevant to those materials. The list should be substantial, perhaps 100 to 125 items, and represent those texts that constitute the particular field of study.

Part II: This list should represent the readings necessary for the part II project and should contain all primary works under discussion, two or more “comparator texts” – similar primary works that will be useful for comparison as the project is developed, whether or not they are cited in the final project – and key critical and theoretical texts. This list is more than a “works cited” for the paper; a particular student’s list may include primary works, biographical studies, standard editions of a work, scholarship raising textual issues, theoretical contexts of the study, major critical studies in the area, and historical works, but lists will vary according to the project. Length of lists will also vary, but the reading list should reflect the part II project and its larger context, perhaps a minimum of ten to 15 items.

Project Description

The project description introduces the argument of the project as well as its critical context in one to three single-spaced pages. It must be specific enough to clarify the relationship of the part II topic to the anticipated dissertation topic and the special field (part I), and it must be titled.

The project description may include a paragraph explaining the special field or the reading lists.

SUBMISSION AND APPROVAL

Before submitting the Major Field Exam project description and reading lists to the Graduate Committee for approval, students write and revise a proposal in consultation with the Major Field Exam committee chair. The Graduate Committee will not evaluate exam materials lacking the chair’s signature of approval. The Graduate Committee will review the materials to assure uniformity in scope of projects, but the evaluation of content and quality will be the responsibility of the exam chair.

After approving materials, the committee chair signs their approval in the upper right-hand corner of page one of the major field exam materials.
When submitting written work to the Graduate Committee, print in Courier 10 or Times Roman 12 fonts (not smaller), single sided, with one-inch margins all around.

ADMINISTRATION
The Major Field Exam committee has three members: the chair and two members selected by the Graduate Committee (ideally, one from within the special field, one from an adjacent field).

The graduate student works with their committee to schedule a time for the exam. The Graduate Coordinator will then schedule a room to hold the oral exam. At the exam, copies of the project paper must be distributed to all members of the committee. (Whether the student also submits the paper to committee members for review and comment before the exam should be decided by the student and the chair in consultation with the other members of the committee. Submitting the papers at least five days before the exam is strongly recommended, to gain maximal benefit from examiner feedback on the project.) Major Field Exams must be completed by the end of finals week of Fall term.

The exam is scheduled for 2 ½ hours. The time equally divided between part I (the special field) and part II (the project and the dissertation), with a five-minute break between parts and allowing for discussion afterward. In fairness to students, the distinction between part I and part II should be clearly maintained. Also in fairness to students, the exam should be neither significantly shorter nor significantly longer than the designated period. There is also an optional written supplement to the Major Field Exam (see below).

Grading

A single grade of pass with distinction, pass, or fail is given for the entire exam. In the event that a student fails the exam, each member of the examining committee provides a written assessment of the student’s performance, as well as recommendations for rectifying deficiencies in that performance. Students must retake the entire exam and may request the same exam chair or ask another faculty member to act as chair for the second exam; the Graduate Committee appoints the other two members. The retake exam occurs the following quarter. The PhD Major Field Exam may be retaken only once.

PhD Major Field Examination Writing Option

As a supplement to the PhD Major Field Exam, a student may choose to complete a written examination on part I. Should a student choose this option, the written supplement is administered one week before the Major Field Exam and read by the student’s examining committee prior to the exam.

This option does not substitute for any part of the Major Field Exam. Rather, it is an opportunity for students to provide their examining committees with an additional written indication of their knowledge and capabilities and is intended to give them every opportunity to perform well on the PhD Major Field Exam. The examining committee may or may not choose to ask questions during the oral exam which relate to a student’s answers on the written exam. The committee will not penalize a student who does not choose to exercise this option.

The written option, lasting one to two hours, consists of a question or questions based on the student’s bibliography for part I of the oral exam.

PhD Journal Article Requirement

One of the 18 seminars required for the PhD will consist of a 5-credit Reading and Conference course to be taken in Fall or Winter of the final year of coursework. For this course, the student will revise and expand a seminar paper into a publishable article, working with either their advisor or the instructor of the seminar for which the paper was written. They will then identify an appropriate academic journal and send the article out for publication. Before being sent out, articles will be reviewed anonymously by two in-field faculty members, appointed by the Graduate Committee. These reviewers will evaluate and comment as they would for an actual journal submission. Course credit is contingent on successfully passing this internal review process and sending the article to the journal. If the internal reviewers require revision, the process may continue past the term in which the course is taken, but must be completed by the end of the following term.

In coordination with this, the Director of Graduate Studies will coordinate a one-credit colloquium in Fall covering scholarly journals’ selection procedures and submission strategies. The colloquium will also be open to dissertation-level PhD students.
THE DISSERTATION

DISSERTATION DIRECTOR AND COMMITTEE

The student asks an appropriate faculty member, who is an expert in the student’s special field and ideally in the dissertation topic, to serve as dissertation director. Once a faculty member agrees to direct the dissertation, the student and director consult about other faculty members to ask to serve on the committee.

The dissertation committee includes at least four instructional faculty members holding PhDs with the rank of assistant professor or higher: the dissertation director, at least two other members of the department awarding the degree whose work is relevant to the candidate’s dissertation topic, and at least one member from another department. The outside committee member—the “institutional representative”—represents the university’s intellectual community and participates on the committee to ensure that the student is treated fairly. Ideally, institutional representatives possess relevant expertise, which will help assure that the dissertation work is in dialogue with a wider academic community, giving students the benefit of an informed, outside perspective.

Each dissertation committee functions in different ways, and students should clarify, during the process of forming the committee, what role each committee member wishes to play in the writing and revision of the dissertation. Students should be especially aware of the status and plans of their institutional representatives, who may go on sabbatical or leave the university without notifying students in other departments. The Graduate School requires the institutional representative’s signature on the prospectus at least six months before the defense, and failure to realize that an institutional representative is not available during those six months may significantly delay the defense.

DISSERTATION PROSPECTUS

The prospectus, 20 pages in length including a selected bibliography (approximately ten pages of text and ten pages of bibliography), should contain:

- a cover sheet (Appendix M);
- a prospectus;
- a selected bibliography of critical and scholarly studies related to the topic.

The prospectus, though brief, should state the dissertation topic and explain it, give the context for the topic and explain its significance, demonstrate familiarity with the field, and, however provisionally, chart the chapters of the study. Like the PhD Major Field exam project description, the prospectus should be revised and refined in collaboration with the dissertation director and dissertation committee before being submitted. The final document must be technically correct (both the prose and the bibliographic citations) and signed by all committee members, even the institutional representative (the cover sheet format for signatures appears in Appendix M). Students will not advance to candidacy until all members of the committee have signed on.

The prospectus is due the last day of classes winter term (or the term following successful completion of the Major Field Exam). Requests for exceptions to this timeline must be made by the student and the dissertation director to the Director of Graduate Studies well in advance of this deadline.

The Director of Graduate Studies will check the prospectus for fulfillment of technical formalities and either approve the prospectus or consult with the student should any changes be necessary. When submitting written work to the Graduate Director, print in Courier 10 or Times Roman 12 fonts (not smaller), single sided, with one-inch margins all around.

ADVANCEMENT TO CANDIDACY
A PhD student is advanced to candidacy after the dissertation prospectus is approved and signed by the entire dissertation committee and the Director of Graduate Studies. (This approval assumes successful prior completion of all other degree requirements.) The advancement itself, which is initiated by the Graduate Coordinator, is done almost entirely online at the Graduate School’s website. The Graduate Coordinator, the student, and the student’s advisor will each be asked to provide information, in response to email prompts from the Graduate School, at various stages in this process. Final approval for Advancement to Candidacy comes from the Graduate School. The Graduate School requires that the dissertation be completed within three years of the student’s advancement to candidacy. However, that three-year rule does not supersede the department’s timeline for completion of the dissertation by GTFs: GTFs are required by the department to complete the dissertation by the end of Spring term two years from the Spring term of the year during which the student advances to candidacy.

DISSERTATION
The PhD dissertation is a substantial work of literary scholarship on a single subject. Length and style vary, but all dissertations must be based on independent and original research, contribute significantly to knowledge in the field, show a mastery of the literature of the subject, be written in correct prose and an acceptable literary style, and conform to the standards outlined in the MLA Handbook of Style (https://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/747/01/) or the Chicago Manual of Style, for film and media students (http://www.chicagomanualofstyle.org/home.html), and the University of Oregon Style and Policy Manual for Theses and Dissertations. Students should consult these manuals early in the writing process. Where these two style manuals disagree (regarding, for instance, the spacing of block quotations and formatting chapter titles), the dissertation must follow the University of Oregon style policy. (The university style manual is available on-line at http://gradschool.uoregon.edu/sites/default/files/ETD_Style_Manual_2011_Oct_18.pdf).

In some cases, with the advance approval of the dissertation committee, a dissertation may be a collection of three substantial essays exhibiting internal coherence but not necessarily treating a single precisely defined subject.

ADVISING AT THE DISSERTATION STAGE
All students are expected to meet at least 3 times per term with their dissertation advisor. These meetings help build and maintain research and writing momentum. They offer ample opportunities for feedback from the advisor, troubleshooting problems as they arise, and consultation about appropriate conferences and publications at the dissertation stage. Ideally, meetings will take place in person; if the student or advisor is out of town, they can take place over the phone, by email, or by other medium. At each meeting, students should bring and complete a copy of the dissertation check-in form (Appendix N). The student should make two copies of the check-in form and give them to the advisor and the Graduate Coordinator. The student should retain the original form.

Dissertation Progress Meeting
In the Fall term of the first full year of dissertation writing, the student meets with the advisor and one other member of the dissertation committee to discuss the progress, status, and trajectory of the dissertation, potential publications associated with it, and any factors impeding the work or troubling the student. The student will submit all drafted work to the advisor and second committee member at least one week before the meeting takes place. After this meeting, the advisor will submit a brief description of the student’s qualitative and quantitative progress to the Director of Graduate Studies.

Students may find it useful to have a Fall term progress meeting during the final year of dissertation writing. This meeting is optional; if it occurs, advisors should submit a Progress Meeting form to the Director of Graduate Studies.

First Chapter Requirement
By the end of Winter term of the first full year of dissertation writing, the student must submit a fully drafted chapter of the dissertation to the Graduate Coordinator (and, of course, to the advisor). “Fully drafted” implies a chapter whose argumentative structure is complete and which has been proofread and includes references, but which might not be considered “polished” or final text. Students who do not meet this milestone, work with the Director of Graduate Studies to discuss available resources and strategies to support their progress and to craft and execute a writing plan. (Such meetings are available to all students at any point of the degree.) As per the GDRS, students must submit a fully drafted chapter of the dissertation to the Graduate Coordinator by the end of spring term of the first full year of dissertation writing, or risk losing their GTF appointments.

Note: It is worth emphasizing that the first fully drafted chapter may be submitted as part of the dissertation progress meeting during the Fall term, and that, ideally, students will have progressed well beyond a single chapter draft at the end of the first full year of dissertation writing. By the same token, individual paths and timelines to a complete dissertation vary widely among students.

Dissertation Defense
A formal, public defense must take place on campus on a date set by the dissertation director and approved by the Graduate School. Students requiring special accommodations for this exam must receive approval from the Graduate Committee in advance. To defend the dissertation, the student must:

- be enrolled for a minimum of three credit hours (nine credit hours for GTFs) during the term of the defense (see http://gradschool.uoregon.edu/final-term-registration for exceptions to this rule);
- provide the dissertation committee members with a final, bound copy of the dissertation manuscript at least five to six weeks prior to the defense (at a committee member’s request, the document may be submitted as an electronic file instead of bound);
• notify the Graduate School of the time and place of the defense.

Arranging the final oral defense is another online process, this one initiated by the student in cooperation with their dissertation committee members. (Students are strongly urged to plan ahead and begin this process as far in advance of the defense as is feasible.) Once a mutually convenient time and place have been arranged, the student goes online at http://gradweb.uoregon.edu/main/mainStudent.asp, logs in, clicks on Oral Defense, and follows instructions. Committee members will then receive emails requesting email confirmation of their agreement to attend the defense; they should agree ONLY if they have read the completed dissertation and find it acceptable. (“Acceptable” means that any revisions still required can be completed by the student in the two-week period between the defense and the deadline for depositing the dissertation with the Graduate School). The online defense process, with the completed Application for Final Oral Defense form (produced online and signed by the Director of Graduate Studies and Department Head) must be turned in to the Graduate School at least three weeks before the oral defense.

The dissertation defense is an oral examination; the candidate passes or fails based not on the written dissertation (again, if a defense is held, the written document has already passed) but on their ability to discuss the subject, research findings, and methodology and to field questions about the written text and the field.

The defense is a formal, public examination and should be conducted professionally. Protocols for the defense should be established by the dissertation director and communicated to the committee and candidate at the beginning of the defense. Guests should not be present during the committee’s deliberations, and decorations and refreshments are inappropriate at the defense itself.

RESIDENCY
The Graduate School requires at least three years of full-time work beyond the bachelor’s degree for the doctorate, with at least one year spent in continuous residence on the Eugene campus. For doctoral students in English this means enrollment in at least two formal English graduate courses (excluding independent study courses [English 601, 603, 605] and teacher-training classes [English 608, 611, 612, 613]) per term for one academic year. This on-campus requirement is usually satisfied during the first full year for which the student has been admitted. The Graduate School regulations specify a minimum of nine credits a term for three consecutive terms to fulfill the doctoral year of residency requirement, and the English department specifies that those consecutive terms run fall through spring.

FILING FOR DEGREE
The Application for Advanced Degree form, available at the Graduate School, must be filed in the Graduate School by the second week of classes in the term of graduation. All grade changes and removals of incompletes necessary to complete the degree requirements must be filed with the Graduate School the term prior to the term of graduation. Students must be enrolled with 3 credits during the term of graduation. (The Application for Advance Degree and graduation information can be found on-line at: http://gradschool.uoregon.edu/getting-ready-graduate.
TIMETABLES FOR YEARLY PROGRESS TOWARD THE PhD

BAs and MAs with 5 or fewer transferrable degree-satisfying courses: (Norm: 6 years of support)
1st year: (Student normally holds a .40 non-teaching GTF appointment)
• ENG 690, Introduction to Graduate Studies in English (fall term)
• ENG 614, Introduction to Literary and Cultural Theory
• Completes 4 additional seminars or equivalents, for a total of 6
• ENG 611, Composition GTF Seminar I (winter term; does not count toward seminar requirement)
• ENG 613, Composition Apprenticeship (winter or spring term; does not count toward seminar requirement)
• Completes first language of language requirement (if pursuing 2)

2nd year: (Student normally holds the first year of .49 GTF teaching appointment)
• ENG 612, Composition GTF Seminar II (fall term; does not count toward seminar requirement)
• Completes PhD language requirement
• 6 degree-satisfying courses (for a cumulative total of 12)
• Submission and approval of PhD breadth fields in winter term and breadth examination reading lists in spring term

3rd year:
• 6 degree-satisfying courses (for a cumulative total of 18, completing all coursework requirements)*
• PhD breadth examination at start of academic year
• Submission and approval of PhD major field examination materials in spring term

4th year:
• PhD major field examination in fall term
• Prospectus submission and approval in winter term
• Advancement to candidacy when prospectus is approved

5th year:
• Dissertation
• Dissertation Progress Meeting in fall term
• Submission of fully drafted dissertation chapter by end of winter term

6th year:
• Dissertation
• Dissertation defense in spring term

*Note: all transfer credits count toward this total of 18 seminars (or equivalents). English Department General Duties and Responsibilities Statement, Page 6.
MA in English and American Literature, Film, or Folklore with 6 to 9 transferrable degree-satisfying courses and holding a .40 GTF first year: (Norm: 5 years of support)

1st year:
- ENG 690, Introduction to Graduate Studies in English (fall term)
- ENG 614, Introduction to Literary and Cultural Theory
- ENG 611, Composition GTF Seminar I (winter term; does not count toward seminar requirement)

STRUCTURED EMPHASIS OPTIONS
The structured emphasis option allows faculty members in a shared field to create a special curriculum for their students in order to assure that they receive appropriate and in-depth training. Structured Emphases are optional, including for students in field. They provide a map of training deemed optimal by faculty in field.

STRUCTURED EMPHASIS IN FILM STUDIES
The structured emphasis in Film Studies is designed for students interested in developing research and teaching skills in the areas of film, media and cultural studies. Students pursuing this emphasis design a course of study that enables them to develop specialized knowledge of media theory, criticism, and history while also gaining a strong foundation in literary studies. This background equips them for advanced, versatile, and interdisciplinary research on a broad range of cultural texts, including film, television, and other popular cultures. In addition, students are trained as thoughtful teachers: in addition to the English Department’s composition pedagogy courses, students with this emphasis work closely with faculty as part of the undergraduate History of Motion Pictures sequence and through other teaching opportunities. This course of study draws on the English Department’s film, television, and popular culture offerings as well as on communications and media-related courses across campus.

PARTICIPATING FACULTY
Michael Aronson, Sangita Gopal, David Li, Quinn Miller, Priscilla Peña Ovalle

REQUIREMENTS
• Distribution Courses: Six distribution courses as outlined in the regular PhD program in the English Department
• Individual Plan of Study:
  Two 600-level English film studies seminars
  Three courses, preferably 600-level, outside of English in film studies or related areas
  Three 500-level English film studies courses
  Two 600-level English 20th century studies courses
  One 600-level seminar in theory
  One 600-level seminar in race or gender studies
  (No course can be used to satisfy two requirements.)
• Film Studies PhD Major Field Exam:
  Students completing the Structured Emphasis will be examined on the Film Studies reading list (see appendix) as part of their Major Field Examination. The reading list should be incorporated into Part I of the exam reading lists and participating faculty will pose questions about those works as part of the regular format of the exam.
• Complete and successfully defend a dissertation related to film, media, performance, or cultural studies with at least one of the film faculty on the committee
Structured Emphasis in Folklore

The structured emphasis in Folklore offers an interdisciplinary approach to the culture of everyday life and its expressive arts in the context of ethnic, regional, religious, gendered, and other identities of individuals in specific communities. Folklore studies also explores notions of the “traditional” as well as the so-called imagined identities of individuals and groups, and the ways such identities convey meaning. Students study the extent to which tradition continues to enrich and express the dynamics of human behavior in local and cross-cultural contexts. Folklore courses examine the historical, cultural, social, and psychological dimensions of everyday culture as communicated through narratives, art, religious belief, music, dance, speech, ritual, and other forms of cultural expression, in both modern urban and rural settings. Theoretical analysis, research methods, and fieldwork techniques are integral parts of the program’s offerings in folklore studies.

Participating Faculty:
Martha Bayless, Dianne Dugaw, Lisa Gilman, Daniel Wojcik

Requirements
- Distribution Courses: Six distribution courses as outlined in the regular PhD program in the English Department
- Individual Plan of Study:
  - Folklore 681, History and Theory of Folklore Research
  - Folklore 607, Folklore Fieldwork; or Video Fieldwork Production
  - Three 500 or 600-level Folklore courses, or Folklore-related courses as approved by the Folklore advisor
  - Two courses in other departments in areas related to folklore (e.g., Literature, Music, Anthropology, Art Administration, or Journalism) as approved by the Folklore advisor

Complete and successfully defend a folklore-oriented dissertation with at least one of the folklore faculty on the committee

After course work, students will proceed to the major field exam and the dissertation under the same guidelines as other English department graduate students.

Structured in Folklore Suggested Background Reading List

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES:
American Folklore Society http://www.afsnet.org
International Society for Ethnology and Folklore (SIEF) http://www.siefhome.org/
Smithsonian Center for Folklife and Cultural Heritage http://www.folklife.sledu/index.html

STRUCTURED EMPHASIS IN LITERATURE AND ENVIRONMENT

The Literature and Environment structured emphasis allows a strong grounding in the evolving theory and practice of this field, introducing students to the canon of ecocritics, nature writers, scientists, and environmental philosophers who have established critical positions in the last three decades. Work in colonial American and nineteenth-century British and American writers on the landscape and natural world and other standard literary fields can be used to provide backgrounds for contemporary approaches, and interdisciplinary links with other departments and programs on campus allow the student to emphasize environmental concerns in course work in a more focused way than the regular program permits.

Purposes:
- To provide a coherent framework for ecocritical focus in English graduate studies.
- To offer opportunities for building a supportive cohort of graduate students interested in environmental humanities studies within the English Department.
- To provide a formal credential in this rapidly expanding interdisciplinary area.

PARTICIPATING FACULTY:
James Crosswhite, Sangita Gopal, Stephanie LeMenager, William Rossi, Gordon Sayre, David Vazquez, Sarah Wald

REQUIREMENTS (which will be included under the required 18 seminars for the PhD):
- Distribution Courses: Six required seminars (Eng. 690, Eng. 614, and four distribution courses) as outlined in the regular English PhD program.

- Individual Plan of Study:

  English 569 or English 615 in ecocritical theory.
  Two English department seminars with an ecocritical/environmental focus.
  Two environmentally focused courses (500- or 600-level) in other departments, at least one in environmental humanities, to be determined in consultation with the individual faculty advisor and subject to approval by the Director of Graduate Studies.

- One field within the Breadth Exam will be constructed by the student and advisor, based on the Structured Emphasis Reading List and either focusing on primary works or secondary works, or a combination of both. It is to represent the broad interdisciplinary range of ecocritical studies geographically, chronologically, and theoretically.

- Complete and successfully defend a dissertation in the discipline of literature and the environment with at least one of the literature and environment faculty on the committee

During and after course work, students will undertake the breadth exam, the major field exam, and the dissertation under the same guidelines as other English department graduate students. Students completing joint PhD degrees in Environmental Studies and English are subject to special requirements set by the Environmental Studies Program and coordinated with English requirements in consultation with the individual faculty adviser and the Directors of Graduate Studies in the two programs.

STRUCTURED EMPHASIS IN MEDIEVAL STUDIES

The Medieval structured emphasis ensures a breadth of knowledge in the medieval period and allows the student to put greater emphasis on medieval studies in both coursework and the major field exam than the regular program permits.

PARTICIPATING FACULTY

Martha Bayless, Stephanie Clark, Warren Ginsberg, Anne Laskaya

REQUIREMENTS

- Distribution Courses: Six distribution courses as outlined in the regular PhD program in the English Department

- Individual Plan of Study: A year of introductory Latin, to be completed by the time of the PhD breadth exam. (May have been fulfilled before entering the program. This does not count toward degree credit.)
  - Medieval Backgrounds course (offered at 500- or 600-level)
  - Nine courses in Old and Middle English or other medieval courses as approved by the individual faculty advisor
  - One seminar in Medieval Latin or one term of advanced Classical Latin (students are encouraged to prepare for the Toronto Certificate in Medieval Latin)
  - One term minimum of another medieval language or a relevant course in another department
  - Elective seminars to bring the total number of seminars to 18

- Structured Emphasis Exam: Students in the structured emphasis option also complete an examination in the field of medieval studies, based on a reading list prepared by medieval studies faculty (the reading list appears in Appendix E). The student will write an essay on one of three questions. Three hours are provided for the exam and the essay should be no longer than 10 pages. This exam will be scheduled some time between the second year of study and the PhD major field exam in consultation with the individual faculty advisor. Unless there are pressing reasons otherwise, it should be taken in the spring following the fall in which the student takes the breadth exam.

After the structured emphasis exam and course work, students will proceed to the major field exam and the dissertation under the same guidelines as other English department graduate students.

- Complete and successfully defend a dissertation in the discipline of medieval studies with at least one of the medieval studies faculty on the committee

Structured Emphasis in Poetry and Poetics

Participating Faculty:
Lara Bovilsky, James Crosswhite, Karen Ford, Lisa Freinkel, John Gage, Warren Ginsberg, Paul Peppis, Forest Pyle, George Rowe, Ben Saunders, Steven Shankman

The structured emphasis in Poetry and Poetics offers a theoretically diverse and historically broad study of poetry and poetic theory, which provides students with a rigorous training in the formal, rhetorical, and historical understanding of poetry. The participating faculty is comprised of an open roster of scholars who embrace a wide range of critical approaches and whose research and teaching interests extend from early modern to postmodern poetry in a variety of British, North American, and post-colonial Anglophone traditions. This structured emphasis will prepare students to write a dissertation on the topic and in the period of their choosing. It will also train students in the teaching of poetry; graduate students pursuing this concentration will be encouraged to teach the department’s introductory course in poetry when scheduling and resources make it possible. Finally, a structured emphasis in poetry and poetics provides students and faculty alike with an advanced forum for the collective consideration of the problems and possibilities of poetry.

Requirements
- Distribution courses: ENG 690, ENG 614, and four distribution courses as outlined in the regular PhD program in the English Department.

- Six additional courses with substantial focus on poetry and poetics, preferably at the 600 level, one of which is to be taken in a department other than English.

- ENG 608: Poetics Colloquium

The examination reading list for the Poetry structured emphasis can be found at http://english.uoregon.edu/wp-content/uploads/2012/02/PoetryReadList.pdf

Poetry and Poetics Examination: The Close Reading
Following the completion of the breadth exams and the submission of the major field examination reading list, the student will perform a close reading of a poem before the assembled participating faculty. On the morning of the exam, the student will be given three poems; the student will choose one poem and will have six hours to prepare. This oral presentation, which will involve (1) a recitation of the poem, (2) a close reading that reflects the student’s understanding of the relevant portions of the reading list in poetry and poetics as well as their interpretation of the poem in question, and (3) a discussion period that will include questions from the assembled faculty following the presentation by the student. The exam will last two hours. The assembled participating faculty will determine whether the student has passed or failed the examination. In the event of a failed exam, the student will confer about how to prepare for a retake with the Poetry and Poetics Coordinator and will have one opportunity to retake the exam later in the term.

After the completion of course work and the close reading, students will proceed to the major field exam and the dissertation under the same guidelines as other graduate students. Students will complete and successfully defend a dissertation that devotes significant attention to poetry and/or poetic theory with at least one of the participating faculty serving on the committee.

STRUCTURED EMPHASIS IN RHETORIC & COMPOSITION

The structured emphasis in Rhetoric and Composition Rhetoric provides historically rich and theoretically diverse resources for the study of discourse over a wide range of issues, from the question of how to teach writing to controversies about philosophical and scientific reasoning. The rhetoric and composition structured emphasis provides training in the history of rhetoric, in rhetorical theory, and in rhetorical criticism. Students must maintain a minimum GPA of A- in course work taken to satisfy the emphasis.

PARTICIPATING FACULTY:
James Crosswhite, John Gage, Anne Laskaya

REQUIREMENTS

- Distribution Courses: Six distribution courses as outlined in the regular PhD program in the English Department
- Individual Plan of Study:
  - In the first two years of study, complete, for graded credit:
    - English 515  Theories of Literacy
    - English 592  History of Rhetoric and Composition
    - English 593  Modern Rhetorical Criticism
  - and two seminars in the field, typically English 691 (repeatable) and/or another seminar designated by the rhetoric faculty
  - In the first and second years of study, complete:
    - English 611  Composition GTF Seminar I
    - English 612  Composition GTF Seminar II
    - English 613  Composition Apprenticeship
    - and satisfactorily teach both WR 121 and 122 (or 123)

NB: Though required for this structured emphasis, ENG 611, 612 and 613 do not count toward the 18-seminar requirement.
• 2 hours of 605 credit to be taken simultaneously with or directly following 611, for research and a paper on composition pedagogy. This credit will be arranged through whoever is teaching 611.

• Complete one term of English 605 in a designated internship under faculty supervision, 1-4 graded credit hours

  (Note: Internships may be coordinated through the Center for Teaching Writing, the Community Literacy Program, the Composition Program, the Oregon Writing Project, or other areas designated by the rhetoric faculty, with projects to be agreed on by the student and one rhetoric faculty serving as internship supervisor. This course will not count toward degree progress.)

• Participate in a colloquium on professional development in rhetoric and composition in the spring term of dissertation year one, together with the rhetoric faculty and others in the field

  (Note: The colloquium will be merged with the ongoing student-faculty reading group in rhetoric and composition, and will carry 5 hours of 605 credit once only, with a supervised project, for those students completing the emphasis; it will not count toward degree progress.)

Rhetoric and Composition Structured Emphasis Reading List and Exam:

The reading list (see appendix) serves students in the emphasis to use as background to prepare a formal presentation paper, like a conference paper, timed to follow sometime after the PhD major field exam. All participating faculty are encouraged to attend the presentation, which will be followed by a brief question and answer period. This presentation will be in lieu of an exam for the emphasis.

After course work, students will proceed to the major field exam and the dissertation under the same guidelines as other English department graduate students.

• Complete and successfully defend a dissertation in the discipline of rhetoric and composition with at least one of the rhetoric faculty on the committee

Politics, Culture, Identity (with Political Science Department)

This specialization is a collaboration between the Departments of English and Political Science, building on existing courses, faculty expertise, and student interest in the interdisciplinary study of politics through theories and methods that attend to interpretation, identity, and discourse. It is grounded in a particular intellectual framework often institutionalized through American Studies, Ethnic Studies, and Post-Colonial Studies programs. Three criteria define its methodological and theoretical concerns:

1. Interdisciplinarity: The incorporation of research methods, theories and forms of evidence from multiple disciplines within the humanities and social sciences
2. Identity and difference: Examining race, gender, sexuality, disability, indigeneity, colonialism and other forms of difference as foundational and constitutive themes
3. Power, domination and justice: An emphasis on forms of exploitation, domination, and resistance
PARTICIPATING FACULTY
David Vazquez, Kirby Brown, Courtney Thorsson, Lisa Gilman, Betsy Wheeler, Quinn Miller, Sarah Wald, Sangita Gopal, Tara Fickle, Mark Whalan, Mary Wood, Mark Quigley, Sharon Luk, Priscilla Ovalle

REQUIREMENTS
• REQUIRED COURSEWORK: 16 credits of approved specialization-related curriculum offered at the 600 level. At least 4 of those credits must come from the Department of English and at least 4 must come from the Department of Political Science. The Coordinating Committee will issue a list of approved courses each year. In addition, students must complete a 1-credit P/NP colloquia course and two terms of a 1-credit P/NP dissertation writing course.
• DISSERTATION: The student’s dissertation must have a substantive focus on themes of culture, identity, and politics, as defined by the criteria above. At least one member of the student’s dissertation committee must be a PCI participating faculty member.
FELLOWSHIPS AND AWARDS

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT FELLOWSHIPS AND AWARDS

GRADUATE TEACHING FELLOWSHIPS

Most graduate students in English are eligible for Graduate Teaching Fellowships (GTFs) on the basis of successful completion of teacher-training seminars, teaching experience, language proficiency, and progress toward their degree. The award includes a stipend and a waiver of Oregon graduate tuition (except for certain fees). Teaching appointments are not available for first-year graduate students who have no college-level teaching experience. (See “Teaching Assistantships” below.)

The English department provides a year-long teacher-training program for new graduate students who wish to make themselves eligible for GTF appointments for their second year of study. The program consists of English 611, Composition GTF Seminar I, in winter term (1-3 credits); English 613, GTF Composition Apprenticeship, in the winter and/or spring terms (depending on demand and the availability of supervising teachers) (1-3 credits); and a series of non-credit class observations during the non-apprenticeship term. First-year GTFs are also required to take English 612, Composition GTF Seminar II (1-3 credits), during the fall term of their first year of teaching.

All GTF appointments are determined by the Graduate Appointments Committee. Because of uncertainties in funding, the department cannot guarantee that every student who completes the teacher-training program successfully will be given a GTF appointment, although qualified students have received GTF appointments in the past. (For more details about Composition GTF appointments, see the Composition Program policy and procedure manual: Policies and Procedures: Teaching Written Reasoning at the University of Oregon.)

The English department also provides a spring term workshop on teaching literature, ENG 608, required for GTFs wishing to be considered for teaching literature courses.

TEACHING ASSISTANTSHIPS

The English department has available each year a small number of teaching assistantships (TAships) for incoming PhD students, an award which includes a stipend and a waiver of Oregon graduate tuition (except for certain fees). TAs serve as tutors. Teaching Assistantships are usually offered to those individuals with the best academic records who have no previous teaching experience and are therefore not eligible for Graduate Teaching Fellowships during their first year of study. (See “Graduate Teaching Fellowships” above.)

RUDOLF ERNST DISSERTATION FELLOWSHIP AWARD

This dissertation fellowship offers a $5000 summer stipend to a student with an exemplary graduate record whose dissertation is considered to be especially promising. All students who have had their dissertation prospectuses approved on schedule are automatically made eligible for this fellowship.
Sarah Harkness Kirby Essay Prize
This $150 prize is awarded to the English graduate student who writes the best English department seminar paper each quarter (Fall, Winter, Spring). Student papers are nominated by faculty teaching graduate seminars.

Jane Campbell Krohn Essay Prize in Literature and Environment
The annual Jane Campbell Krohn Prize is given for the best essay by a graduate student in English on the theme of literature and the environment. The winner receives $300.

Stoddard Malarkey Essay Award in African American Studies
The Malarkey Essay Award in African American Studies offers $150 for the best essay in the field each year. Students can submit any work completed while at Oregon, including work drawn from dissertations.

Ecocritical Fund
The Ecocritical Fund supports research and conference travel related to ecocritical studies. Requests should be made to the Department Head. University of Oregon travel policies apply.

Department of English Travel Grant
Support for students giving papers at conferences. Requests should be made to the Department Head. University of Oregon travel policies apply.

Sherwood Travel Grants
The Department offers 6-10 Sherwood awards of up to $700 each year to support graduate travel to conferences. These awards are competitive and may be combined with annual department travel grants. Awards are offered in both fall (October 15) and spring (March 15) terms.

University Fellowships and Awards
Questions about general scholarships, loans, and financial aid information should be addressed to the Office of Financial Aid (541-346-3221). Information about Financial Aid for graduate students is also available on the Graduate School website, under “Funding Sources for Graduate Students” (http://gradschool.uoregon.edu/funding-awards). For information on funding opportunities for international students, contact the Office of International Education and Exchange, 541-346-3206.

University of Oregon Doctoral Research Fellowships
This fellowship offers support (currently $18,000 stipend plus tuition waiver) for a student in the final year of doctoral work; one student per year will be nominated by the department.

Target of Opportunity Laurel Awards
The TOLA fellowships offer tuition waivers for students of color with strong academic records (U.S. Citizens/Permanent Residents only). Contact the Graduate School, 541-346-5129.

Margaret McBride Lehrman Award
The McBride Lehrman Awards (available in alternate years) support graduate students who have extreme financial need in fields emphasizing communication, especially writing ($9,000 stipend... plus tuition waiver). Departments nominate candidates. Check the Graduate School’s website at http://gradschool.uoregon.edu/fellowships#overlay-context=.

CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF WOMEN IN SOCIETY GRADUATE AWARDS
Awards for graduate students whose area of specialization involves research or creative work on gender, feminist theory, or aspects of women’s experiences; travel grants, $100-$400; research grants, $100-$2,000; Jane Grant Dissertation Fellowship, $10,000; International Laurel Research Award, $2,500; Laurel Research Award, $2,500. Contact CSWS, 541-346-5015, or website, http://csws.uoregon.edu/funding/.

HUMANITIES CENTER FELLOWSHIPS
The Oregon Humanities Center offers support for advanced dissertation research and for research travel with humanistic emphasis. Contact the Humanities Center, 541-346-1001, or http://ohc.uoregon.edu.

COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES SCHOLARSHIPS
The Everett D. Monte Scholarship ($1,000) goes to one graduate student in the dissertation year; the Mary Chambers Brockelbank Endowed Assistance Fund ($500-$1,000) is available to students of limited means; the Risa Palm Graduate Fellowship ($1,000) goes to one or more graduate students. Contact CAS, 541-346-3950.

For information on these and other internal and external funding opportunities (such as Ford Foundation Fellowships, Fulbright Fellowships, NSF Fellowships, Woodrow Wilson Grants in Women’s Studies, etc.), students may visit the UO Funding Library in the Graduate School, 125 Chapman Hall. The funding library has information in print and electronic form and each term sponsors workshops on funding searches.
EXTRA-CURRICULAR OPPORTUNITIES

ENGLISH GRADUATE ORGANIZATION
The English Graduate Organization (EGO) is composed of all graduate students in the department who wish to participate in discussions on a variety of professional and scholarly topics twice a term at casual “wine and cheese” meetings or brown bag lunches. Faculty members are often invited to participate in the discussions and answer questions regarding graduate student concerns and issues of the discipline. EGO also hosts an annual fall picnic to welcome new graduate students and faculty to the English department and a spring party to congratulate recent graduates, polls graduate students regarding student membership on departmental committees, and runs an annual book sale. Contact Claire Graman, EGO President (cgraman@uoregon.edu), Celeste Reeb, EGO Vice President (celester@uoregon.edu), or Amanda Eagle, MA Student Liaison (aschmid4@uoregon.edu).

STUDENT/FACULTY READING GROUPS

MESA VERDE
Mesa Verde is a group of graduate students and faculty, both within the English department and from other departments, who are interested in the study of literature and the environment. The group participates in several different activities. Mesa Verde sponsors an ongoing colloquium series which provides an opportunity for graduate students and faculty to present their current work in the field. Members also meet regularly to discuss ecocritical texts and related works in environmental philosophy, public policy, and film. And they occasionally go camping. There is no need to define yourself as an ecocritic to attend meetings. Mesa Verde has a full range of specialists—medievalists to Americanists—in their ranks. If you are interested in the topic and in good company, you are welcome to subscribe to their email list and join them. Contact Kate Huber (khuber2@uoregon.edu).

MODERNISM GROUP
The Modernism Reading Group meets monthly to read and discuss modernist literature and criticism. Readings include primary works, critical works from the period, and recent critical and theoretical works on modernism and modernity. A memo announces the first meeting and lists the readings for the year. Contact Karen Ford (fordk@uoregon.edu) or Paul Peppis (ppeppis@uoregon.edu).

ELLENWEORCAS
Ellenweorcas (EW) is a reading group open to graduate students and faculty, concentrating on British and continental medieval literature. Each year we choose a topic to explore, and meet monthly to discuss primary texts, usually chosen by group members. Previous topics have included Saints’ Lives, Medieval Women Writers, and Arthuriana, and have covered texts in Anglo-Saxon, Middle English, and Latin. Anyone interested in medieval literature is welcome to attend. Contact Justin Brock (jbrock@uoregon.edu).
FILM AND MEDIA GROUP

The UO Film and Media Group is an interdisciplinary organization dedicated to the academic study and enjoyment of cinema, television, and new media. The group welcomes participants from all academic disciplines who share a passion and a critical interest in film and media. Because the study of film and media takes place in numerous departments at the University of Oregon, one of our primary goals is to establish an organization in which film and media scholars across the University can communicate with one another about their shared interests. The Film and Media Group offers monthly film screenings followed by informal discussion, as well as a film and media reading group. The reading group will meet three times a term to discuss important and relevant works of film and media criticism or theory. In future terms we plan to offer an open-to-the-public film series that coincides with the English Department’s Film History courses and a colloquium on film and media studies related topics. If you are interested in participating in the group, please contact Diana Martinez (dem@uoregon.edu).

QUEERING ACADEMIC STUDIES: A CSWS RESEARCH INTEREST GROUP

The Queering Academic Studies RIG is a networking and reading group, meeting bi-weekly during terms to discuss articles, book chapters, and works-in-progress on queer theory and its intersections within a broad range of disciplines. The group is open to anyone interested in queer studies. Our aim is to promote an open exchange of ideas and to foster cross-disciplinary alliances and projects within the queer discourse community at UO. For more information, see the CSWS website or go to http://csws.uoregon.edu/?page_id=4712.

THEORY GROUP

The Theory Group meets monthly to read and discuss works of critical theory and philosophy. Readings include both contemporary and “classic” texts in Marxism, poststructuralism, and narrative theory. In addition, the group provides an opportunity to discuss the historical and institutional role of theory, how it has shaped the literary professions, and what it means for us as critics. For more information contact April Anson (april@uoregon.edu).

APPENDIX E - STRUCTURED EMPHASIS IN FILM STUDIES READING LIST

(Note: This list contains readings in critical theory but does not stipulate primary texts, that is, titles of films. Mass media texts are ephemeral, and the goal of graduate education in film studies is not to study “film classics” but rather to understand how the mass media use narrative and genre in the light of ongoing historical, technological, and institutional change. This reading list establishes a firm methodological base which will allow students to evaluate a film’s style and narration from a variety of theoretical perspectives. Students are expected to use this list as the basis for the Special Field exam and to modify it as needed in consultation with their advisors.)

“Visual Pleasure and Narrative Cinema,” Laura Mulvey, Screen 163 (1975), 6-18 (widely anthologized)

Selections from Home Is Where the Heart Is: Studies in Melodrama and the Woman’s Film, ed. Christine Gledhill (London: British Film Institute, 1987): “The Melodramatic Field: An Investigation,” Christine Gledhill; “Producing and Consuming the Woman’s Film: Discursive Struggle in Now, Voyager,” Maria LaPlace; “The ‘Woman’s Film’: Possession and Address,” Mary Ann Doane

“Film Bodies: Gender, Genre and Excess,” Linda Williams, Film Quarterly 44.4 (1991)

Cinema and the Invention of Modern Life, Charney, Leo and Vanessa R. Schwartz, eds. (Berkeley: UCP, 1995)

The Language of New Media, Lev Manovich (Boston: MIT Press, 2002)
Migrating to the Movies: Cinema and Black Urban Modernity, Jacqueline Stewart (Berkeley: UCP, 2005)

Make Room for TV: Television and the Family Ideal in Postwar America, Lynn Spigel (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1992)
